A FEW WORDS OF CONFIDENCE AND APPRECIATION —

To the Friends and Depositors of the First National Bank of Eaton Rapids

During The Situation—

THAT has faced this community the past few weeks, you have expressed your confidence in this bank to an unusual degree, and to merely say that the officers and directors appreciate it, is expressing it mildly, indeed.

Because of This Co-operation—

WHICH you have so willingly given through a period of stress, THIS BANK HAS BEEN ABLE TO RIDE OUT THE STORM.

After All—

THE THING you are most concerned about, is the SAFETY of your money in the bank. In this connection we are happy to announce, THE ADOPTION OF MUCH STRONGER SAFETY MEASURES, and the MATERIAL STRENGTHENING OF THE CAPITAL STRUCTURE OF THE BANK, to a degree where it is our sincere belief THAT NO DEPOSITOR NEED HAVE ANY DOUBT AS TO THE SAFETY OF HIS FUNDS.

In Times Like These—

IT IS necessary for ALL banks, to inaugurate new rules and new policies, some of which may seem drastic, and even unfair to the depositors and customers of the bank. We are merely going to ask you to be tolerant, and to REMEMBER that any new rules and new policies inaugurated by this bank, have been carefully considered from BOTH SIDES, and we believe will prove out in the long run for the best interests of the depositors.

The Officers and Directors—

INVITE you to call at the bank and discuss with them any rules or regulations that do not meet with your approval. They will discuss them with you freely and frankly, for after all this is YOUR bank and it will be our most earnest desire at all times to give you the UTMOST in SAFETY and SERVICE.

Eaton Rapids in Good Financial Condition. Does Not Owe Dollar

$3,000 Paving Tax Bond Is Soon Due, But the City Has Plenty of Money On Hand To Promptly Take Care Of It

The city of Eaton Rapids is probably in as fine a financial condition as any small city in the state, the financial status at this time being absolutely free from debt, with approximately $22,500 cash in the treasury.

The only indebtedness against the city, other than a few current bills of small amounts, is $3,000 paving tax, not yet due, but with the $3,000 in cash already in the hands of the city and available at any minute. While we have some school district bonds yet to pay, this is a matter pertaining to the district and not the city proper. The Henry lot recently purchased for $1,500 is also paid for in full.

The city tax last year was $5.20 per thousand, being one of the smallest, if not the smallest tax rate in the state. Last week the city commission transferred $6000 to the street fund and $400 to the cemetery fund, both amounts coming out of the water and light fund.

After expending approximately $10,000 last year for water main improvements the fund was yet good to the amount of $6,400.

With the city improvements of the past few years, all paid for, and the amount now in the treasury, Eaton Rapids is in wonderful shape. However, in the course of a few years new bridges may have to be constructed, possibly a sewage disposal plant will be required, and other expenditures will be found necessary. These matters however, can be taken care of when we are confronted with them, and should not worry us at least for some time to come.

Requests Fans To Be Good Sports

Wants Eaton Rapids To Have Good Reputation for Fairness in Basketball

Basketball fans attending high school games are respectfully requested not to indulge in "booing" or otherwise voicing disapproval of referee's decisions, even if there may be doubts as to their justice. Such action on the part of fans borders on unsportsmanlike conduct.

The student council and teachers are endeavoring to improve the reputation of Eaton Rapids in this connection. Last year we were given a rating of "excellent" for sportsmanship by the state high school athletic association. We would appreciate the help of all adults who attend games in order that we may be honored in this fashion again this year.

Respectfully,
M. J. Martin,
Sut. of Schools.

E. E. HORNER IS NEW PRESID'NT

Annual Meeting of First National Bank Tuesday, Several Changes Made

The annual meeting of the First National bank of this city was held Tuesday with the following men elected to the several offices and board of directors: President, E. E. Horner; vice president, J. Sumner Hamlin; executive vice president, Martin Hansen; vice president, Murry Stroud; cashier, Kenneth Williams; chairman of the board of directors, M. D. Crawford; other members of the board, George Pettit, John Birney, N. P. Hull and Richard Toncray.

Executive vice president, Martin Hansen, reports that during the past two weeks the bank has been placed in an enviable position financially due to approximately $60,000 in cash having been placed in the institution by the Horner Brothers Woolen Mills organization, D. G. Miller & Sons, A. M. Smith Co. and other stockholders, the Horner organization taking around $40,000 of this. This money was to cover bonds and other securities which showed more than a normal depreciation, and covers their original purchase price.

One important change in the board of directors is the electing of N. P. Hull, of Lansing, as a member. Mr. Hull is connected with the Capital National bank of Lansing, and the Federal Reserve bank of Detroit.

Mr. Hansen, executive vice president, has resigned his position with the A. M. Smith Co. and will devote his entire time to the duties of the bank from now on. Mr. Hansen...

"Stop E. Lansing" Is Battle Cry

Eaton Rapids Trims Howell in Surprise Basketball Victory

Overconfidence, combined with smart basketball on the part of Grand Ledge, sent Eaton Rapids down to defeat last Friday night, 18 to 14. The Ledgers were exceedingly tall and rangy players with an abundance of fight. The reserves won out, however, 18 to 9.

Howell fell before the locals Tuesday night 16 to 9. Eaton Rapids showed a complete reversal of form. Good ball handling combined with an exceptional defensive game and plenty of drive enabled Coach Gibbons' warriors to whip Howell, who ruled as easy favorites.

Strickling showed his old time form for the first time this year in holding Rancour, Howell star, to two field goals and three foul shots. These two field goals were the only ones collected by the invaders, while the locals secured eight.

Higgins was high point man with four field goals.

The second team defeated the Seniors in the preliminary.

Tonight, Friday, Jan. 15, East Lansing comes here. This should be the outstanding game of the season. Co-champions of the "Little Thirteen" last year, East Lansing players are favorites to win the "Little Seven" title this season. Apparently having a better team than a year ago they will be hard to stop. However, Eaton Rapids' showing against Howell has raised the local's stock a good deal.

This will be the last home game...

M-50 ROUTED THRU THE CITY

To Pass Half Mile South of V. F. W. Home. May Be Paved North of Jackson at Early Date

State highway M-50 is to be re-routed between Jackson and Eaton Rapids, but it will not pass the Veterans of Foreign Wars National Home, according to latest plans given out by state highway commissioner, Grover C. Dillman.

It is understood that the highway may be paved north from Jackson in the near future.

Maps showing the re-routing indicate that M-50 will follow its present course thru Tompkins Center to a point near Fuller lake, where it will swing sharply to the north. It will then follow the Eaton - Ingham county line well to the west of Onondaga to a point one-half mile south of the V. F. W. Home. Here the federal aid plan will follow what is known as the Old Plank road in a northwesterly direction. One mile straight south of Eaton Rapids it will merge with M-9 and go directly along Main street in Eaton Rapids.

As proposed, M-50 will not cross a railway track after leaving Jackson until Eaton Rapids is reached. On towards Charlotte the highway will be re-routed so as to keep to the east of the Michigan Central railway and thus miss Charlotte entirely.

Michigan officials of the V. F. W. urged the state highway department and federal authorities to consider routing M-50 farther to the north along the Eaton-Ingham county line so as to pass their national home. This was not approved...

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH OUR YOUNG MEN—

The following data from the government gives some interesting information on the physical condition of our young men. What's the matter? In this athletic country of ours, is it not enough or too much athletics? Is it too late hours, lack of rest, indifference to health, high life or speed? Anyway, when only 236 out of 5,476 applicants for the navy are accepted, there must be something wrong somewhere.

During the year of 1931 the navy recruiting station, Detroit, which covers Michigan and Northern Ohio, enlisted 236 men. They were selected from 5476 applicants—an average of 455 per month. 4895 men were examined by the medical officer, who rejected 4479 as not physically qualified. Of those who passed physically and were not enlisted, some failed on the mental test, and others had police or reform school record, or could not furnish satisfactory character references. 581 applicants were not even examined, but rejected on information given in the application, such as insufficient education, police record, etc. The largest single cause for rejection of applicants was defective or insufficient teeth, including pyohrrea, which accounted for 2060, or 37 per cent of all applicants. Defective vision, including color blindness, came next in importance, causing 586 rejections. Flat feet, popularly supposed to be the chief cause of rejection of navy applicants made a poor fourth, 325 rejections. Diseases and defects of the heart and blood vessels caused 197, and diseases and defects of the ear, nose, and throat, 132, while defective physical development accounted for 344 rejections. The remaining physical rejections ran the gamut of human frailities, from ingrowing toenails to tuberculosis.

The requirements for enlistment in our navy, YOUR navy, are probably the highest of any organization in the world. The rigid maintainance of these high standards by the navy recruiting service assures the pick of America's manhood in the first line of defense.

JOURNAL SWAMPED BY FREE PUBLICITY REQUESTS—

Every week the mails bring to the editor of the Journal dozens, and even hundreds of letters asking for free publicity of some kind or another, the senders evidently seeming to believe that a newspaper is for the express purpose of giving publicity to money-making schemes without compensation, and that the expenses of a newspaper plant must be paid from an endowment fund or some other unknown source.

Last week one of our neighboring cities sent in about a column of publicity matter relative to a grand opera singer, telling about her accomplishments, and that tickets so much per could be purchased at such and such a place. Of course this grand opera singer only gets a small pittance for her performance, probably not over $500 or $1,000 an entertainment, yet they ask newspapers to give the advertising matter gratis. We have not heard of hotels, taxi drivers, gasoline stations or anyone else giving this grand opera star anything excepting probably $2 or $3 a ticket to hear her sing, so why pick on the newspapers?

We also have on our desk right this minute publicity—advertising pure and simple—advertising a basket ball game in Jackson, a wrestling match in some other city, and heaps and heaps of university publicity for football games and every other kind of money-making entertainment. However the newspaper must give all free, and when the editor desires to witness one of their games they asked him $7 for two tickets.

The Journal does not fall for this bunco game. Let it be known that every entertainment, regardless of what it may be, or from where it comes, as long as it is promoting a money-making scheme, is advertising, pure and simple, and must be paid for as such. The day of making a monkey out of the country newspaper is just about over, and the sooner we get this idea across with the rank and file the sooner the small town newspaper will get out of the red.

MIGHT BE WORSE THAN BANK CLOSING—

Did it ever occur to you that if your money had not been tied up in the Michigan State bank that you might have invested it in some other place and lost every cent, where with your money in the bank you stand a very good chance of getting back almost all of it, if not every cent? Had you had the money in bonds or stocks where would you be?

With the bank closed interest continues to pour into the bank and overhead expenses are cut to the minimum. Interest on deposits stops, and while in the process of liquidation, the bank is a money-making institution, all of which means that when the day of settlement comes you'll be paid just that much more on the dollar. A number of people right here in Eaton Rapids would be much better off if they did have a few hundred or a thousand dollars in this bank instead of where they have it, so don't let this overworry you—things could be much worse.

If most of the people who have stocks and bonds today ever receive a quarter or a third in return for their certificates they will be doing well, and we do not mean to be pessimistic about it either. As one editor puts it—frozen savings will thaw out and pay considerable on the dollar. Defaulted bonds and depreciated stock may or may not, and probably will not.

NEEDY REQUIRE LESS HELP THIS WINTER—

Speaking of times being better in general, the Michigan Manufacturer and Financial Record comments as follows:

"Perhaps the most significant phase of the situation so far this winter is the lessened sum which is being required for public relief. Indeed, the sum is so much less than it was last winter that it leads to the suspicion that in the earlier period waste and extravagance ruled the day rather than necessary relief. The expenses of most of the municipalities of the state so far this winter have been of demand for less public relief, while that of the city of Detroit is so much lower than it was that, without reports of enforced hardship, that one is led to believe that perhaps too much was spent last winter. At any rate, the condition is one of encouragement and general improvement both of the aggregate volume of payrolls and the necessities for public funds to supplement them."

CHARLOTTE LAUGHS—

Yes, we understand they have remarked that all the bums from Charlotte and every other city in Michigan will visit our city and make for the Community dining room on account of our big-heartedness, but the laugh is on Charlotte when they learn that no one is admitted to the dining room without proper credentials, and no one but our own people who have lived here a considerable spell will be considered.

Every person securing a meal must first secure a ticket from the committee, be O. K'd, found worthy and in need. It's simply a matter of Eaton Rapids taking care of its own instead of asking the county to play Santa. If our neighboring city desires to know how the trick is done, and at a minimum expense, Eaton Rapids will show them how, and with pleasure.

Editorial Comment

DON'T GET MAD—THINK—

The new year 1932 is now well under way. Before it is over the people of the United States will elect a new president, new congressmen, state and county officers. Conditions which most of us have never before experienced exist. Some people we know are giving up, or pretending to. Others are mad. And then, there is the big majority who don't like it better than the others but who are going about their business day by day, doing the best they can and looking ahead to better times.

This is no time to get mad. It is no time to quit. It is time to think, seriously and honestly. The Democrats are not to blame because there is a depression all thru the south where they have had control for many years. The Republicans who have held most of the offices in the north did not bring the depression. President Hoover cannot stop the depression overnight. President Wilson was not able to keep us out of war with Germany in 1917.

We must all look at things sensibly. When your automobile slips off the road into the ditch you don't just sit still and howl. Nor does one of the passengers grab a cushion, another a spark plug and the third a generator and start off down the road. If they did that old machine would stay in the ditch forever. Instead we all push while the driver steps on the gas and gradually and slowly we get out onto the highway again.

Neither the Democrats nor the Republicans started the war or depression which has followed in its path. Hoover did not start them. Brucker shouldered a gun and went to France in 1917 as he was ordered. Your national, state and county officers have done all in their power to relieve conditions. If they have not succeeded, neither have the governments of any other nation on earth.

Again, we would mention that there are important elections to be held in 1932. The nation, state and county need the services of its most capable citizens. Just getting mad and upsetting the existing administration is not particularly smart. Wise and capable men who might willingly serve their country, their state or their county do not relish the prospect of offering themselves as candidates when people are in bad temper. Blatherskites and political upstarts often take advantage of such conditions, hoping to ride into office on a tide of unrest and economic disgust.

Down at Washington and in our own state there are plenty of people who can criticise. They can tell what is wrong, both with our government and with everything else. Just ask them how to correct what they criticise and they are speechless. The facts are, they are mad, disappointed and disgusted. They are not thinking—they are protesting. They are not helping—they are tearing down.

This is no time to get mad.

It is high time that we used our heads. —Schuyler Marshall in St. Johns Republican.

HOW IT CAN BE DONE—

School teachers of Chicago have been made the "goats" during the past year or so as a result of the unfortunate financial tangles of that graft-ridden city. They have not been paid for months and the news dispatches say that many of them are faced with actual starvation as the result of the miserable attitude of Chicago towards its educational system. There is an easy way for the school teachers of America to force Chicago to give some attention to the demands of its teachers for money that they have earned. Chicago is planning a great world's fair in 1933 and to make it a success that city has got to have the popular support for the venture. The city where school teachers are being permitted to starve is right now sending millions of dollars on the world's fair project. It has often been pointed out that the school teachers of America weild the most powerful influence of any group in this nation. If that is so, right now is a good time for combined action on the part of the teachers of America—force Chicago to pay the teachers their salaries or create such a sentiment against the world's fair that it would be the biggest kind of a flop of anything of the kind ever attempted. And who is there that will not say mass action on the part of all of the school teachers in America against the Chicago 1933 fair would not bring results? In other words, if Chicago with its millions for graft, cannot pay for the education of its children, what right has it got to try and "educate" the rest of the nation by the means of another world's fair in 1933? Chicago can win back much of its lost respect throughout America by at least treating the school teachers of that city as school teachers should be. If Chicago does not do it, the hundreds of thousands of educators throughout the land have a perfect right to set in motion a nationwide propaganda against the world's 1933 fair.—Elton R. Eaton in Plymouth Mail.

Voices Leap the Pacific as Telephone Service Now Reaches West to Hawaii

How Modern Telephony Outdistances Space: Scenes in Connection With the Recently Opened Telephone Service Between Hawaii and North America.

For the first time in history, voice-to-voice holiday greetings could be exchanged last Christmas between friends in Hawaii and in North America. For on December 23, 1931, radio telephone service was formally opened to make conversation possible between persons in the United States, Canada, Cuba and Mexico, and those on the principal islands of the Hawaiian Archipelago. Hawaii thus becomes the first of the outlying dependencies of the United States to be linked with the latter by direct voice communition.

Two separate paths form the voice channel to Hawaii. In its course from one telephone to another, the voice receives an amplification measured in millions. The transmitting station for the transpacific service is at Dixon, California, 20 miles southwest of Sacramento, and the receiving station at Point Reyes, 35 miles north of San Francisco. Both the Dixon and Point Reyes stations have recently been completed, and equipment installed, by Transpacific Communication Company, Ltd., subsidiary of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company.

San Francisco Is Central Point for North America

The station at Dixon transmits to a station at Koko Head, 12 miles from Honolulu, and Point Reyes receives from a station at Kahuku Point, 30 miles from that city. These stations in Hawaii are operated by the Radio Corporation of America. The channels from the United States are connected not only to the wire network of the Mutual Telephone Company in Hawaii but also to an inter-island short wave radio telephone system which it has recently inaugurated.

San Francisco is the focal point for the new overseas system. Through the transpacific control room in the San Francisco telephone office, subscribers in Hawaii are connected with the United States, Canada, Cuba and Mexico. A special switchboard handles Hawaiian calls. This switchboard, staffed by highly trained operators, is fitted with direct circuits not only to the radio transmitting and receiving stations but to the principal cities of the United States and to the switching points for other parts of North America.

A New Development in Directional Antennas

Simplicity and compactness mark the new type antennas for Dixon and Point Reyes. These antennas, developed by the Bell Telephone Laboratories, in New York, are diamond shaped. The arrangement of the wires makes them highly directional, resulting in great power economy.

The diamond at Dixon is formed by two copper wires mounted on 70 foot poles. The antenna is "aimed" at the receiving station in Hawaii by placing the longer axis along the great circle course between the two stations. At the western end of the antenna is a system of iron wire looped back and forth on a line of 20 foot poles. This dissipates energy which would otherwise be radiated in an easterly direction. Some 1200 feet of wire is required to expend this energy. The shape of the antenna checks radiations from either side. The system thus transmits in only one direction.

The receiving antenna at Point Reyes is a diamond formed by a single copper wire likewise mounted on poles. Just as the transmitting antenna concentrates its energy in one direction, so this antenna, due to its shape, is sensitive only to signals traveling along the line of the major axis. This is, of course, placed along the great circle course from the Hawaiian transmitting station. A circuit at the western end of the antenna dissipates the signals received from the eastward.

The Dixon transmitting station has a rated power output of 20 kilowatts. With a highly directional antenna this is ample to bridge the 2,400 miles between the West Coast and Hawaii. It uses several frequencies between 7,000 and 21,000 kilocycles, corresponding to a range of 40 to 14 meters. The Point Reyes receiving station has eight stages of amplification, in addition to a high frequency and a low frequency detector. Automatic volume control minimizes fading or variations in volume.

"Speech Inverter" Insures Privacy on the Air

With the exception of the antennas, the equipment to be used in the transpacific service is much the same as that now employed on the transatlantic channels. In the control room is the "speech inverter," which gives the conversation privacy over the radio channel, and the "vodas," a device to eliminate the echoes which would otherwise make it impossible to talk in both directions on the same radio wave length. In addition to this, there is the wealth of associated apparatus at radio station control room and switchboard which have been brought in by the development engineers piece by piece to increase the intelligibility and reliability on voice channels across oceans.

The inauguration of the service to Hawaii reflects not only an experience of five years by the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., in telephone service across the Atlantic Ocean, but months of experiment in determining the best arrangements for bridging the seas between the West Coast and Hawaii.

Insect With Iron Teeth "Shorts" Telephone Lines

Right: Shown enlarged about six times, this bug bears the scientific name of Scobicia declivis—but that isn't what telephone linemen call it when they have to repair the holes it chews in lead covered telephone cables, allowing rain to enter and short circuit telephone wires. It is found in the South and West, particularly in California. Above is a telephone lineman riding a cable and using a mirror to help him locate the holes this "short circuit beetle" bites in the lead sheath.
