Blacksmiths must be a of men, as, according to an adage among those sons of Vul-only two of their craft ever went to Old Nick"—one for not charging enough for his work, and another for pounding on cold iron. In former years when a blacksmith shod a colt, he claimed the "colt tail"—the owner of the colt must go to the nearest saloon and treat the crowd; but that is "played out" in Eaton Rapids. The blacksmiths of this village don't fool away their hard earnings in that style.

Next west of Whittaker's is BIRNEY'S LIVERY STABLES.

Mr. Birney has been in Eaton Rapids and engaged in the omnibus and livery business for eight years. In past years he was a company with his brother
Wallace, who is now in Bay City, Mich.
Formerly the firm was Birney &
Brother. Frank has been running alone for some time past, and will continue so. Mr. Birney, like all live men, is the embodiment of energy. He is very attentive to business in sun or shine his 'bus attends to every train, and he is very courteous to ladies and lifts a lady or gentleman passenger from trains, he carries the mail. He keeps good livery rigs in readiness day or night. He is now refitting his rigs, and has strictly temperate, courteous which must be highly ad-to his business in this tem-munity. Mr. G. J. Bromley, ge of the 'bus, is very gen-obliging.

of D. Lewis. Mr. Lewis is one of our excellent citizens, and has been here since 1862. His pleasant residence is situated on Water street, near the Methodist parsonage. While he still does the cleaning and repairing part of the business, the Messrs. Vaughns—Morgan and Wesley—who have been identified with the business of Eaton Rapids for many years, are interested in the concern. A large stock of valuable jewelry, comprising clocks, watches and silverware, has been lately added to this store, which really presents a beautiful appearance. This store does not take stock in "cheap jewelry," but keeps largely of the "Simon pure" articles.

The next door leads us to the

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

of Eaton Rapids, organized within the past year. This institution is the outgrowth of the Banking business of Messrs. Dutton & Williams. Those gentlemen did a safe, honorable business here for several years, and still enjoy the entire confidence of our community. Mr. Williams has been connected with the National Bank since it first started till lately, when he moved to Ohio. Mr. A. C. Dutton is a fixture here, and employs his time partially in insurance and agency business.

We may say right here that we have no rich men here living in idleness and rusting away their existence. There are men among us who might live without any care or employment, but, to their honor be it said, they choose to do something besides being drones who are often dead weights to all life and enterprise in towns, cursed by their useless existence. We prefer bootblacks or candy peddlers to such lazy fellows.

Our National Bank, which is yet in its infancy, has a capital stock paid in of $50,000, and is growing in the confidence of the public. Its directors are mostly our own solid residents. The President, A. J. Bowne, is also President of a bank at Middleville. Mr. F. H. DeGolia is the Cashier, who commands in a high degree the confidence and esteem of the community.

Next comes the "burnt district," on which Messrs. W. D. Brainerd, grocer, and Knapp & Carr, hardware men, are erecting a brick block, which is rapidly approaching completion. As soon as the block is finished these gentlemen will move their stocks there.

Next we come to

SMITH & PALMER'S GROCERY,

known as the C. O. D. store. This firm—F. E. Smith, who is a resident of Eaton Rapids, and A. W. Palmer, of Charlotte, who owns a store there—began business here in 1874, and have done a strictly cash business. They have kept groceries, crockery and glassware. They are now closing out their business with a view to moving to Potosky, Mich.

DRESSMAKING.

Mrs. O. L. Meacham and Miss Ada Osborn have been engaged in dressmaking since last December in Sweezey block, in rooms formerly occupied by Mr. Sweezey. Mrs. Meacham came here from Blissfield, Mich., and Miss Osborn, though a young lady, is an old resident of Eaton Rapids. These ladies cut, fit and make dresses in good style, and have had a fine patronage.

MILLINERY.

Miss K. Dakin is engaged in the millinery business, and keeps a fine stock in Sweezey block, in rooms nearly opposite those occupied by Mrs. Meacham and Miss Osborn. Miss Dakin has been engaged in business here most of the time for ten years past. She is said to be an estimable lady, a finished "workman" in her calling, and has enjoyed a very liberal patronage.

We next find

JOEL F. KNAPP & CO.'S HARDWARE STORE.

Mr. Knapp has lived in Eaton Rapids since he was four years old, and began business here in 1871 in a tin shop, and is really a practical tinner. He owns a fine gothic residence on Lansing street. He was formerly a member of the firm who bought out the hardware business of Frost & Wilcox in the building now occupied by Knapp & Carr. The present firm are successors to the business of J. T. Sweezey. Mr. C. F. Phillips, the other member of the firm, came here two years ago from Newaygo, Mich. Mr. Phillips owns a good residence on the east side of East street. He is interested in agriculture, also, and owns a farm near town, besides being largely interested in pine lands in other parts of Michigan. This is a live, solid firm. Their stock is large, and consists of general hardware. They deal in all kinds of agricultural tools and implements. They keep a tin shop in connection with their hardware business.

The Great Shoshonees Remedy

Is an Indian vegetable compound, composed of juices of a variety of remarkable medicinal plants and herbs; the various properties of these different ingredients, when combined, is to act simultaneously upon the Blood, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Digestive Organs, Nervous system, &c., restoring their functions to healthy action, and, being purely vegetable, is as harmless as Nature's own beverage. This medicine is a decided benefit in all, and a permanent cure in a large majority of diseases of the blood; such as Scrofula, Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Canker, Pimples, &c. In describing the medicine we do not claim that it always performs cures; but this we do say; that it purifies and enriches the blood, permanently curing a large majority of diseases arising from its impurities. It stands far ahead and unclouded among the hundreds of competing medicines of the day. It has stood the test of ten years, and to-day more people are using it than ever before. Those who are subject to a high temperature, such as is subjected by a high temperature. Persons who are subject to bilious Colic, Dysentery, Indigestion, &c., should take the Shoshonees Remedy. Price of the Remedy in pint bottles, $1; trial, size, 25 cents. Pills, 25 cents a box.

Prepared only by FOSTER, MILBURN & co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by L. T. White, Eaton Rapids.

There is no one medicine that will relieve as many pains as Carter's compound extract of smartweed, a sure relief for diphtheria, croups, colds, cholera, colic, diarrhœa, rheumatism, asthma, phthisic, croup, fever and ague, and has no equal as a Liniment for man and beast. For sale by Hamilton Bros., druggists. dly7n6

LOCAL NEWS.

—Fizz.

—Bang!

—Soda water,

—Firecrackers,

—And runaway horses,

—And lots of fun generally.

—The Glorious Fourth next week.

—Another change in the Michigan Central time table.

—The American eagle clears th her throat for a big scream.

—Floral concert at the Congregational church Sunday evening.

—Have the Ku-ka-kalaka-bo-dads overhauled their wardrobes?

—We've had hot enough weather this week to suit the most fastidious.

—A. C. Miller should trim down his "Eva" to the regulation standard.

—For—ty mill—yuns of pee—pul—begins the oration on the Day we Celebrate.

—Do you remember that delegate from Brookfield? Wonder if he'll be here this year?

—We move that there be a whistling match on the Fourth, so as to give the "Major" a chance.

—Wonder what are the reflections of the pig all this time. Perhaps he little dreams—but never mind.

—Cooper & Miller came along with a new advertisement this week. Seek and find it in this number.

—Sun'er pretty hot just now. Grin and bear it and invest in Soda water, lemonade and ice cream.

—May the duties of the Marshal be light, and the labors of the saloonist ditto—is the prayer of good citizens in reference to the Fourth.

—The streets have been thronged with our country consins this week, and some of them stepped in to see the editor and fix up that little subscription matter.

—Some of our young men emulate Blondin, and practice on the tight rope. 'Twould be all right, if they did not choose Sunday as the particular time for their artistic performances.

—As Marshal Hamlin's duties in keeping the peace and making arrests are light, he busies himself in seeing that Main street is kept clean, and that defective sidewalks are repaired.

—Eugene Crossman should not kick so determinedly. The way the cross walk flew up and hit Gene on the head should teach him that even a football may have rights that white men are bound to respect.

—Rev. Mr. Doust has been on a visit to his son, H. B., at Newburg, Mich., whose wife has been dangerously sick. While there Mr. Doust saw Willie Dunbar, who is in the employ of Doust, Jr. Willie is well and doing well.

—We protest against allowing our parsons to enter for the fat men's race on the Fourth. But this protest does not apply to chasing the greased pig. The person that catches the pig may fatten up sufficiently to run with the fat men next year.

—Our druggist, L. T. White, may lead our ministers and their families into habits of dissipation, as he invites them to "take sustain" freely when his soda fountain begins to sizzle. Gracious! don't we wish, these warm days, that we belonged to the race of parsons.

—While we are in favor of temperance even in eating, we would recommend all good and loyal citizens—men, women, children, and babies that are big enough to "chaw"—to partake without stint of the good things which the ladies of the W. C. T. U. will supply on the Glorious Fourth.

—Much to our annoyance, many who ought to pay up for the JOURNAL, forget it by mistake or design. Our readers now have, in small amounts, over $300 of our money, which we very much need. Having waited on many of them for from six to twelve months, they ought to pay up now.

—Where are the Mulligans? We have failed to learn that they contemplate glorifying themselves on the Fourth. Perhaps they are playing low, and will put all their energy and ingenuity into one grand effort toward the capture of piggy. We advise them to put salt on the grunter's tail.

—Some of our citizens are speculating in real estate. Mott Gear has exchanged his house and lot on Canal street to Jas. Fairchilds, for a house and lot on Neil street. The property on Canal street, though neglected and dilapidated, is very pleasantly situated. Fairchilds is now renovating and improving the property, and will greatly enhance its value.

—Mr N. G. Northrup has brought from his farm to this office stalks of Clawson wheat measuring five feet eight inches in length, without any sign of rust or disease. He also has timothy four feet seven inches in length. Mr. Northrup is evidently a solid, thorough farmer. He drives the most thoroughly [illegible] owns a [illegible] owns a farm worth $1,000.

—Those brethren who run the Charlotte papers must have found some unpleasant things in their political aspirations of late, as they seem quite misanthropic—though they may have been laboring under an attack of the "blues." For instance, they work themselves up to believe that the JOURNAL is sour and quarrelsome, whereas its publisher is [illegible] somewhat [illegible] of Eaton county. —Big crowd on the Fourth. Eat!

—Wool sells from 28 to 32½ cents.

—What weight constitutes a "fat man?"

—An independent editor is the noblest work, etc.

—Blessed is the farmer who remembers the printer when he sells his wool.

—Dimondale correspondence crowded out this week.

—Where did "Isaiah" get that new stove-pipe hat?

—17,000 pounds of wool sold in Eaton Rapids Tuesday.

—C. Hartson is laying up the walls for his brick business building.

—The Brainerd-Knapp & Co. brick block is approaching completion.

—Wool comes to this market at the rate of 10,000 to 15,000 pounds daily.

Mr. C. M. Jennings offers to sell a lot of his well known sheep. Call on him.

—Business has been fairly active this week, the wool interests predominating.

—Messrs. Roberts & West will shut up their mill on the Fourth and celebrate.

—Rev. Mr. Bedford attended the commencement exercises at Ann Arbor this week.

—It is rumored that one of the Mulligans is married, going to be, or ought to be married soon.

—Mr. Frank Miller has the thanks of the JOURNAL for the nicest lot of strawberries of the season.

—Young America is now industriously skirmishing around for dimes to purchase fire crackers.

—The editor would like a prize. Why can't some one propose a big premium for the handsomest man?

—Friend Dunbar has made a very efficient School Director, and has taken great interest in his work.

—The Eaton Rapids House has changed its name—now the Morgan House, and has been painted on the out side.

—Mr. Chas. Wack brought a load of wool, weighing 1,820 pounds, to town last Tuesday, which was bought by Mr. W. Vaughn.

—It was to Mrs. Munger, and not Mrs. Montgomery, that Mrs. Dr. Wilkins presented that box at last week's surprise party.

—It is with deep regret that we learn that Mr. and Mrs. Gannon's little son, only remaining child, is considered dangerously sick with diphtheria.

—The annual meeting for the election of school officers and other business will be held in the High School building on Monday, July 8th, at 7.30 p. m.

—"Gallant Inquirer."—No, we have not learned that the man who eats the greatest number of meals will have the privilege of kissing the prettiest waiter. Ask the ladies.

—To-morrow, June 30th, will be Children's Day at the Congregational church. There will be a sermon for the children in the morning, and a Floral Concert in the evening.

—We have found out why there are not more marriages in Eaton Rapids. You see, most of the good-looking girls belong to the Y. W. C. T. U., and they don't want to leave the Society.

—The Telephone concert at the Congregational church was not so largely attended as we could wish. The explanations of the workings of the telephone and the singing were very interesting.

—Wool has been coming to this market freely, and we find by quotations from our local exchanges, that Eaton Rapids pays higher prices than adjoining towns. Competition is quite brisk here.

—Our public schools close this week and pupils and teachers will enjoy a vacation till next September. They have the closing exercises this (Friday) evening with an address by J. M. Corbin.

—Mrs. M. G. Northrup has our sincere thanks for the nicest lot of delicious strawberries that we have seen this season. They are much milder than the Wilson, and are a new variety. We regret that we do not know their name.

—Lyman Champlin, who has been down with consumption for the past year, died Wednesday evening. He leaves a wife and two children. His funeral services were held in the M. E. church, Thursday p. m., Rev. Doust officiating.

—"Uncle Tom's Cabin" drew a big crowd to the tent on Tuesday evening. The play passed off to the general satisfaction of the people, though we have heard several say that the performance was not equal to what was given by our home talent some time since.

—In Eaton Rapids they charge for board according to the amount the boarder increases in weight while there. A Detroit gentleman, just returned from the Saratoga of Michigan, was put on the scales on his arrival and again on his departure, and a dollar a pound [illegible] the amount gained.

—We are glad to note the [illegible] that the people take in the [illegible] appearing in the JOURNAL, on Eaton Rapids. We encouraged Manger, who wrote up Charlotte for the Leader, to do this work, but for several days, much to the disgust of many of our citizens, he was in a state of drunkenness on our streets. He came here with strong recommendations from the Leader, which induced several of our citizens to pay [illegible] been given [illegible] We [illegible] well [illegible] at [illegible] bet him a [illegible] why he did not write up [illegible] Paul Stone would be a target [illegible] for humor.

THE RED RIBBON.

The Overflow Meeting.

The overflow temperance meeting was held at the Philorhetorian hall last Sunday evening. As usual, the house was full. Vice President C. W. Stevens presided. Rev. Titterington read from the Scriptures, and Rev. Bedford made the opening prayer. The meeting took considerable of a business turn, looking to arrangements for making money on the Fourth for completing the temperance hall. A long list of names of committees of ladies for managing eatables on "the day we celebrate" was read. It would seem as though every lady in town and out of town were on the important committee. God bless them all for their zeal in a good cause.

Mr. Bedford, as usual, made some stirring, pointed remarks. He urged upon all to patronize the ladies' eatables, so as to replenish their treasury. He and his "better half"—including the young person, of course—would call pushing on that day but what they would buy from the W. C. T. U. He further urged the importance of the temperance missionary spirit in visiting and encouraging our outside clubs.

Johnson Montgomery made some good remarks, and read an original essay from a manuscript that, a young lady said, would reach across the hall. The article contained strong, good ideas.

Mrs. Montgomery gave an impromptu address, which was full of good sense, and secured good attention.

While Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery welcome every temperance element and organization, they think "prohibition," is the most certain cure of the great evil of intemperance.

Deacon William Green made some good remarks that were heard with attention. The Deacon in past years innocently made and sold cider, but as he has learned that cider, like a gun, is a dangerous thing, he will make no more cider. He knows a neighbor who acknowledges that cider has about ruined one of his sons, as it created an appetite for intoxicating drinks.

Mr. I. H. Corbin was requested to express his views on taxing saloons. He had no objection to the measure, but as our saloon men had begun the year without any additional tax over what they pay to the State, and the Board had accepted their bonds, the Board would not, and could not justly, impose a new tax, without violating what amounted to a contract. We think that our temperance people won't go to sleep next year on this question. "Isaiah" would deal justly with saloon men, as with other parties; viz, he would violate no agreement with them. All of which is sound.

Mrs. Mead read an original poem, which was an able, eloquent production. It was delivered in good style. We heard several say it was one of the best things we have had. The audience paid strict attention to the poem, and greeted the "poetess" with very hearty applause.

THE REGULAR MEETING.

The regular temperance meeting was held at the M. E. church, President Shaw in the chair. The time was largely occupied in the appointment of delegates to the convention to be held at Detroit. The following gentlemen were appointed: Jas. Stirling, J. M. Corbin, Judge Shaw, L. P. White, David Stirling.

Notice.

It is earnestly desired that all should buy their dinner of those ladies, as the entire proceeds will be applied towards completing the new Red Ribbon Hall.

GENERAL NEWS.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S accession to the throne, of England occurred exactly forty-one years ago.

ACCORDING to the New York Graphic, Vinnie Ream gave Lieutenant Hoxie her hand, but not her 'art.

TURKEY seems to leave about all her interests at the Berlin congress in the hands of the English representatives.

A GREAT scandal is the Washington city topic now, the parties is a Washington belle and Congressman Acklin, of Louisiana. The latter threatens a duel with Gen. Rosser on account of the story.

THE export of fresh beef from America has grown from the shipment of 36,000 pounds, valued at $2,800, in October, 1875, to a total of $5,244,668 in 1877. The shipments in the first three months of 1878 have been: January, $385,342; February, $437,633, and March, $541,927. These shipments are much larger than the correspending exportations of previous years.

It is stated that the timber bill which passed at the close of the last session of congress provides that all pending cases may be compromised at $2.50 per acre stumpage, and enacts special punishment for cutting timber for exportation from public lands. This, in effect repeals all laws prohibiting the cutting of timber on public lands for home consumption.

THE District of Columbia comes in for some small appropriations, as will be seen by the following statement of a few items authorized by the last session of congress:

State and War Department building	$675,000
Repairs of Patent Office	300,000
Building for Bureau of Engraving and Printing	327,800
Terrace for the Capitol grounds	150,000
Work on Washington monument	80,000
Buying property near Capitol, about	350,000
Total expenditures	$1,64[illegible],000

The total disbursements for public improvements next year will be not less than two and a half millions.

LABOR troubles still continue in some parts of the country. A dispatch from Cincinnati to the New York Times says that farmers in all parts of Ohio are receiving almost daily notices signed "Workingmen's Bread or Blood Committee," and warning them against buying labor-saving machinery, and especially self-binding reapers. Threats are made that every such reaper will be destroyed and the stacks of grain burned if an attempt is made to use them. No cases of violence, however, have yet been reported.

THE imports and exports of Russia, for the first four months of the year, have been favorably affected by the cessation of hostilities. The largest increase in the imports has been in salt, raw cotton, iron and steel rails. The import of Bessemer steel rails has, this year, been 1,549,415 poods, against 319,144 poods last year. The weight of machinery and locomotives imported has increased three-fold. These figures are significant of the efforts being made by the Russian government to complete its rail communications with German ports on the Baltic. The exports have also increased largely. The total cereal exports, for the four months, are double those of the first quarter of 1877.

ADVICES from Europe are all to the effect that a settlement of all difficulties is far from being assured. Russia has finally made a stand upon the concessions already offered, and declines to concede anything more. Count Shouvaloff stated, at an informal conference yesterday, that Russia was prepared to carry out the terms of agreement made with Lord Salisbury, and would refuse to do more. Count Andrassy took exception to the remark, and said that the congress had been convened to adjust the relations of Turkey with the whole of Europe, and not to ratify a private agreement between two powers. No attempt is made to disguise the fact that the good temper of the delegates has already been ruffled, and it is only too evident that the chances of a peaceful determination of the questions involved are few indeed. Russia in the meanwhile is preparing for a general application of war, and is moving her forces to positions of strength and accessibility.

The Crops.

Specials from fifty places in Iowa, Minnesota and northern Wisconsin to the Pioneer-Press, say reliable information as to the condition and prospect of the growing crops in Minnesota represents the wheat crop as in a splendid condition with a rank growth of straw and promises of good heads. Cold, damp weather all through the spring has been admirably adapted to the formation of thrifty plants, and the warm weather with occasional rains now beginning promises to afford the best conditions for ripening. Late storms have lodged heavy grain at a few points but the damage from that scource is inconsiderable. Rust is somewhat feared in connection with the warmth and moisture. All dispatches promise crops do not promise quite so well, except oats which are looking well. Corn is backward on account of the cold and wet, and potatoes suffer slightly from the Colorado bug. The condition of things in northwestern Wisconsin answers closely to that in Minnesota. In Iowa reports are not so uniformly good. An increase of acreage of wheat is announced as the result of the heavy crop and high prices last year, but in that slightly lower latitude grain suffered more from damp and rust than in the northern states. The damage from this source is confined to certain localities. The chinch bugs are doing damage in some quarters. Oats look well but corn is backward.

Congressional Summary.

WEDNESDAY, June 19—Senate.—After being in executive session several hours, the doors were reopened at 2:25 P. M. Bills on the calendar were then considered. The conference committee on the civil sundry bill having failed to agree, a resolution was adopted extending the session until 10 P. M. The resolution, extending the session until ten o'clock, was agreed to.

At the evening session Mr. Allison submitted the following: Resolved, That the select committee appointed under the resolution of the 5th inst., to make inquiry concerning the alleged connection of Senator Matthews with matters relative to the late presidential election in Louisiana in exercising powers granted to sit during recess of congress, may hold its sessions at such place or places as it shall deem most convenient for the purposes of investigation. Agreed to.

At 12:35, a message was received from the house of representatives, announcing the concurrence of that body in the report of the conference committee on the sundry civil appropriation bill. Mr. Windon, chairman of the committee on appropriations, made a brief explanation, and the report of the commision conference was then agreed to, and the bill passed. The president pro tem. here announced as committee on part of the senate, to consider the subject of reorganizing the army, Messrs. Burnside, Plumb and Butler. The president pro tem., also appointed Messrs. Oglesby, Saunders and McCreary as committee on the part of the senate to consider the subject of transferring the Indian bureau from the interior to the war department. At 3 A. M. of the 20th inst., the senate adjourned sine die.

WEDNESDAY, June 19—House.—Mr. Ewing moved to suspend the rules and pass the bill to release the national bank notes and substitute treasury notes for them; rejected, yeas 109, nays 114. The result was greeted with applause on the republican side. The speaker appointed the following committee to attend the funeral of Representative Quinn, of Albany: Messrs. Mayhew, Blount, Caldwell, Jones, N. H. Townsend and Jones, (Ohio.) A resolution was adopted to pay the widow of Quinn his arrears of pay and the pay he would have received for the remainder of the term. Mr. Southard moved to suspend the rules and pass the following bill: That on and after the 1st of October, 1878, legal tender notes shall be received at par in payment of custom duties. Agreed to and the bill passed 153 to 53. Mr. Haskell moved to suspend the rules and pass the bill providing that all pensions on account of death wounds received or disease contracted in the service of the United States during the late war shall commence from date of death or discharge, and for payment of arrears of pensions on that principle, and also providing that no claim agents shall be entitled to any compensation for making application for arrears of pensions; agreed to—yeas 161, nays 62.

Mr. Conger moved to suspend the rules and pass the joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment forever prohibiting the payment of any claim for property taken, used, injured or destroyed by United States troops during the war of rebellion, unless, the owner was loyal to the government and gave neither aid nor encouragement to the enemy; agreed to, yeas 144, nays 61. The speaker announced the following committees: On reorganization of the army, Messrs. Banning, Dibbrell, Bragg, Stright and White, (Penn.); on transfer of Indian bureau to the war department, Messrs. Scales, Boone, Hooker, Van Vorhees and Steward; on the labor question, Hewitt, (N. Y.,) Riddle, Dickey, Potter, Thompson, Rice and Boyd. Mr. Atkins then made a conference report on the sundry civil appropriation bill. He explained the report which, however, he had not signed because, he said, of the appropriation for the Halifax award which he thought unjust. The bill, he said, as originally reported, appropriated $16,548,000; as it passed the house, $17,590,186; as it passed the senate, $22,075,100, exclusive of the appropriation for the Halifax award. As it came from the committee the bill had been cut down to $19,250,100, also exclusive of the Halifax award. A discussion ensued regarding the Halifax award. The house then proceeded to vote on the conference report and it was adopted, its opponents being in too small majority to order either yeas and nays or tellers, and the vote on division being ayes, 129; nays, 39. The announcement of the result was hailed with applause. At 3 A. M. of June [illegible] the house adjourned sine die.

ORDER [illegible] IN FULL FORCE.

Inquiries continue to be made of the president from persons occupying federal offices in different parts of the country, as to whether the president's civil service order remains in force, or whether it has been modified. It can be stated on authority that the order will be enforced. This order prohibits persons holding federal positions from taking part in caucuses, primary meetings, or canvass, while they will be permitted to support any candidate they choose and assist in any way that will not interfere with the proper discharge of their official duties. Voluntary contributions to campaign funds are not considered by the president to be a violation of this order.

"Dear [illegible] I have received your letter [illegible] the following questions [illegible] with the circular re[illegible] from the committee, [illegible] contributions to [illegible]: Whether you are [illegible] such contribution; [illegible] permitted to do so; [illegible] are doing so or not; [illegible] your official standing and prospects in this department? 1. You receive your salary as an employe of the government for certain services rendered in your official capacity, and not as a member of a political party. The salary so earned belongs to you, and, unless taxed by law, it is in no sense subject to any assessment for any object whatever. In return for it you are expected to perform your official duties faithfully and efficiently, nothing more. In this connection I have to call your attention to the following statutory provision (19 Stat., page 169, Sec. 6): 'That all executive officers as employes of the United States not appointed by the President, with the advice and consent of the Senate, are prohibited from requesting, giving to or receiving from any other officer or employe of the Government any money, or property, or other thing of value for political purposes; and any such officer or employe who shall offend against the provisions of this section shall be at once discharged from the service of the United States; and he shall also be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, on conviction thereof, shall be fined in a sum not exceeding $500.' 2. You are as free as any other citizen to spend your spare money in any legitimate way you please, and as your political principles or your public spirit may suggest, provided you do not violate the above quoted provision of law, either directly or indirectly. 3. Your contributing or not contributing, as above stated, will not affect in any manner whatever your official standing or prospects in this department.

THE POPULAR 4 PER CENT. LOAN.

Advices from Washington under date of June 21, state that the secretary of the treasury has issued a circular calling attention to the four per cent. funded loan of the United States now offered by the department in denominations, for coupon bonds of $50, $100, $500 and $1,000 and for registered bonds of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000 at par and accrued interest to the date of subscription in coin. The bonds are redeemable July 1, 1907, and bear interest payable quarterly on the 1st of January, April, July, and October of each year, and are exempt from the payment of taxes or duties to the United States, as well as from taxation in any form by or under state, municipal, or local authority. Upon full receipt of full payment, bonds will be transmitted free of charge to subscribers, and a commission of one-fourth of 1 per cent. will be allowed upon the amount of subscription. Commissions will be paid by check only, and will not be applied in payment of subscriptions. All national banks are now invited to become financial agents of the government and depositories of public moneys received on the sales of these bonds upon complying with sec. 9 153 revised statutes of the United States. All banks, bankers, and persons are invited to aid in placing these bonds, and can make their arrangements through national banks for the deposit of the purchase money of the bonds. The proceeds of the sale of these bonds will until further notice, be only used in redemption of 5-20 6 per cent. bonds of the United States under the refunding act. As soon as the 4 per cent. bonds are paid for by the certificates of deposit of such public depositaries or otherwise, a call will issue maturing within twenty days for the redemption of 6 per cent. bonds, and the money received for the 4 per cent. bonds will remain on deposit until such call matures. Payment for the bonds may be made in coin, coin certificates, certificates of deposit of government depositaries, call bonds coupons maturing within thirty days, or in currency drafts on New York in favor of the secretary of the treasury, which will be received at coin value thereof at the National Bank of Commerce, New York. Any payment in excess will be returned with the commission. All bank currency drafts on New York should be forwarded directly to the department by the subscribers or their agents. The circular continues: "The favorable state of the money market induces the secretary to press upon the people this loan, by which they can obtain direct from the government a national bond of the highest credit and sanction, exempt from taxes, and payable, principal and interest, in coin. Every citizen of the United States is interested in the success of this loan, as every sale of these bonds enables the government to save one-third of the interest, or an equal amount of outstanding debt to be redeemed. These bonds should be the store house for the savings of the people. No facility or advantage will be given to large subscribers. It is the interest of the public that the bonds be distributed in small sums among the largest number of our fellow-citizens. Subscriptions to an amount equal to the bonds now redeemable would make an annual saving of $8,961,632, and such subscriptions can now be made without withdrawing from circulation any of the money of the people. All blanks or forms or information needed will be furnished by the department without cost."

EARTHQUAKES.

Repeated and Destructive Shocks on the Gulf Coast of Lower California.

A correspondent of the San Diego (Cal.) Union writes: "The inhabitants of the town of Loreto, on the Gulf of Lower California, have been the victims of sad misfortune, the consequences of which were the almost total destruction of their houses and stores. On the 22d of April an impetuous earthquake shock was felt at that place, accompanied by a terrible report, and bringing terror to the unfortunate people at that point. A letter written by a witness on the spot to Governor Tapis says: 'At 10 o'clock in the morning the first shock agitated the earth followed by a very strong and prolonged rumbling, which scarcely gave us time to get away from the debris and fragments which instantly commenced to fly about, and most of which came from the most solid and substantial edifices. This movement lasted from two to three seconds. Judging from the fierce impetuosity of the first shake, we believed it would be the only one, but unfortunately it was not so, for up to to-day (May 3,) for eleven days, we have had shocks of greater or less strength, but always [illegible] I can assure you that since the interval from the date of the first shock up to this time there have been at least 400 shocks, and it is worthy of note that they were repeated with the greatest frequency during the night time. In the land near the sea-shore enormous fissures were made, from which rolled forth volumes of fresh water of a very warm temperature. Thus it may be seen that our situation is frightful, the destruction is complete, and misery is seen on every side. A multitude of families have gone away, impelled thereto by fright and desolation, and not having a roof to shelter them. Those remaining have built temporary jacales (huts) on the plain. Already the political chief has taken the necessary steps to succor the people at Loreto, and the other sufferers, in which he is aided by the Junta de Beneficiencia. A subscription has been started through the whole territory for the benefit of the unfortunate."

HAT. WAR DANCE OF THE CHIPPEWAS OF WISCONSIN.

The following are the important points in the Rush City, Minnesota, advices of the 24th inst., concerning the Indian troubles in Wisconsin: "Col. George A. Forsyth and Gen. Edward E. Bryant have arrived from their journey of investigation. They left Rush City Saturday morning, and went to Grantsburg and Wood Lake, as surmised. Reaching Grantsburg they interviewed many of the citizens relative to the scare They ascertain the condition of the trouble to be exactly as has been published in the Pioneer-Press. The Grantsburgers did not and had not taken but little stock in it. The fright was confined mainly to farmers, although Judge Grettam and Sheriff Anderson sent dispatches to Madison which tended to create great excitement. Finding this to be the belief, Col. Forsyth and Gen. Bryant hunted up two or three who thought otherwise, and took them with the party to Wood Lake to convince him that their scare was groundless, and reached that lake about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The Chippewas were which partakes of a religious nature. From 60 to 70 were here congregated. In the center of the ring of warriors was a young man leading the dance, who was singled out by the party as the chief, but they were mistaken, and a tall old fellow was brought to them, and introduced to Colonel Forsyth. He was intelligent, quiet, and reticent, but impressed the visitors with the fact that he was telling the truth. At this point the dance stopped, and the warriors assumed their natural stolid manner and listened to the conversation between their chief and the great white general. It was brief, and did not occupy more than about five minutes. The colonel, in few words, introduced himself. Speaking of the scare of an uprising, he stated that he was there to find out if there were any grounds for such belief. The chief made a short reply, and said; "We are not mad," and continued by stating that the dance was a new one; they were learning, and they were devoting their whole time to it. The Chippewas did not want to fight. They had no cause to, and were not foolish enough to do it, as they would soon be cleaned out. As to treaty, none had been made with the Sioux, who were their enemies. The Indians when informed of the scare, evinced almost as much fright as the settlers. They were much afraid that they would be compelled to go on their reservations. After this interview the gentlemen returned to this place, and Colonel Forsyth sent a dispatch to Gen. Sheridan, giving the situation as stated above.

RUSH CITY, Minn., June 23.—Lieutenant General P. H. Sheridan: I have just returned from Burnett county, Wis., having visited Grantsburg and Wood Lake, the places where the alleged uprising of the Chippewas occurred. There is not even a foundation of the reports. The Indians have not so much as spoken unkindly to any of the settlers, nor have they taken anything from the farms abandoned by the frightened Swede settlers, and the chief of the Chippewas whom I saw at the dance at Wood Lake assured me that nobody was mad, and seemed to regret the reports of their giving trouble. For some time past the Chippewas have been practicing a new dance, which is very like one of the Cheyenne dances, and which seems to take their fancy to such an extent that they spend in dancing the time which they ought to consume in hunting and fishing, and let their women and children go hungry. The constant repetition of this dance, which is semi-religious in character, has worried the timid Swedes, and some malicious joker started a report of an Indian uprising, and quite a number of outlying settlers hastily abandoned their homes and rushed to Grantsburg and Rush City for protection. Not a single Sioux has been seen in this part of the country, and the alleged affiliation of the Sioux and Chippewas is as untrue as it is absurd, as the two tribes are mortal enemies. Nearly all of the settlers have returned to their homes, and all will be back again by this evening. I shall return to St. Paul to-morrow. GEORGE A. FORSYTH,

Lieutenant Colonel and A. D. C.

BRYANT'S WILL.

A New York special under date of June 24th, says the will of the late William Cullen Bryant was filed in this city to-day yesterday to the Surrogate of Queen's county at Jamaica. It is dated Dec. 6, 1872, in his own handwriting, and is remarkably legible. It bears no trace of trembling or nervousness. Besides two daughters, one the wife of Parke Godwin and the other unmarried, only two persons get any portion of this estate, which is estimated at $350,000. Had Mr. Bryant survived his children, the estate was to have been equally divided between his nephews and nieces, and those of his wife. The bequests otherwise than to his daughters are four acres of land and $8,000 in money to the overseer of his estate, G. B. Cline, and $200 to the latter's son. All the rest of the property, including Bryant's interest in the Evening Post, is equally divided between the daughters. If either daughter dies childless, her share shall go to the surviving sister, and it is especially directed that the property given the daughters shall be settled in such a manner as to be free from the intermeddling or control of the husband of either. The executors of the will are John A. Graham, John Bigelow, John H. Platt, George B. Cline, and the testator's daughter, Julia S. Bryant.

A KANSAS RAID.

Advices from southwestern Kansas of the 24th inst., State that a terrible rainstorm prevailed in that region last week. At Winfield the rainfall on Wednesday afternoon is estimated at twenty-five inches. The whole country is inundated, and great damage done to crops. Bridges and fences were carried away, and cattle, hogs, and poultry drowned. The children of a farmer named True, living on Beaver Creek, were drowned, and Mr. Bell, living on Badger Creek, was also drowned. Considerable damage was also done by lightning.

THE TEXAS BORDER.

A Galveston dispatch, under date of June 24th, says the News Eagle Pass special, states that Gens. Mackenzie and Shafter arrived there last night; their commands arrived to-day; they penetrated Mexico about forty-five miles from Newtown, the place of crossing and about eighteen miles east of Saragossa, where they were met by a detachment of the Mexican army, under Col. Valmedez, drawn up in line of battle. The Mexican commander inquired the purpose of this invasion, informing Mackenzie that he had orders to repel the American invasion, and that he (Mackenzie) should not proceed further. The Mexican position was obstructing the American progress. Mackenzie warned them to get out of his way, saying if they did not do so by four o'clock that day he would shoot those Mexicans who were standing in his way; and at the same time began putting his men in order for battle. At the appointed time the Americans advanced. Their numbers appeared to overawe the Mexicans, who hastily withdrew to safe distance, keeping sight of the American troops. MacKenzie asked Valdez if he intended to obstruct the American route again, to which Valdez replied it was his, MacKenzie's, business to guard against that, he would come again soon. Valdez offered a detachment of his force to escort Americans to place of crossing. MacKenzie declined the offer, saying that he was able to take care of himself, however, the Mexicans saw MacKenzie safely across the river. The Mexican force was inferior to the American, hence no blame could be attached to Mexican officers for not attacking. No captures were made during the expedition. This is the American version.

INDIAN CAMPAIGNING.

A Boise City dispatch under date of June 22d, says parties from Fort Hall and Lemhi via Wood River and Big Camas Prairie, report having seen 200 Indians on Wood River, about 200 miles east of this place, who claim to be friendly and on their way to the Fort Hall Agency. These Indians stated that James A. Dempsey, a white man, who had an Indian wife, and who had lived many years with the Indians, and who was with the hostiles in the Lava Beds at the commencement of the outbreak, had been killed by the war party before they left the Lava Beds on their raiding tour. Small parties of Indians and traces of larger bodies are also discovered in the country bordering the overland stage road. These Indians are no doubt scouts and straggling reinforcements on their way from the east to join the main body now in the neighborhood of Stein's Mountain. They are keeping up a regular line of communication between the Lava Bed region and the place of rendezvous, and watching the movement of the troops. Maj. Sanford, who is to-night at Canyon Creek, forty miles east of this place, will arrive here to-morrow night and go with Gen. Grover to join Gen. Howard in the Melheur country. Gen. Howard, with about 400 men, will proceed to-morrow in the direction of Stein's Mountain, where it is understood the Indians have concentrated and decided to make a stand

THE BADGER INDIANS.

St. Paul advices of the 22nd say the best informed persons here have been utterly incredulous as to serious Indian troubles in Wisconsin from the first and the opinion is confirmed by a report of the Pioneer-Press representative who went to Grantsburg, and telegraphs, after full investigation of the matter, as follows: The panic is great. Houses in the country are being deserted and the towns of St. Croix Falls, North Branch and Rush City are filled with fugitives, but no ground for fear can be discovered. No hostile Indians can be found or heard of. The report can be traced to personal quarrels of Indians with the whites, in which the former have suffered. One Indian was killed by his companion for spreading rumors of trouble. The Indians deprecate the panic, fearing punishment. It is evidently a groundless panic on a large scale. Gen. Forsyth, of Sheridan's staff, went to Rush City to-night. He makes light of the whole matter.

IN THE FAR WEST.

A Silver City dispatch of the 22nd inst., says that the stage road between here and Winnemucca is clear of hostiles. Jerry Winnemucca and other friendly Pintes, who have been in the hostile camp recently, say the Bannocks claimed they had then killed thirteen whites, and had three of their own Indians killed. The white men were killed and burned in a covert near the Stair Mountain recently. The Malheur Reservation Indians were behaving worse than the Bannocks, slaughtering every animal that comes within their reach. Gen. Howard is still at Malheur City.

The Ant Bear.

The great ant eater, and bear, or tamanoir, as it is indiscriminately termed, is a curious animal, both in its appearance and its habits, and is a native of Guiana, Brazil and Paraguay. It is entirely destitute of teeth, but nature has offset this deficiency by a most liberal supply of tongue—a member which it uses most skillfully in the capture of its peculiar food, the termites and other ants. In total length it measures between six and seven feet, the tail being about two feet six inches long. The head is remarkably elongated and narrow, and is well adapted to the animal's mode of life. The body is covered with long, coarse hair, which on the tail forms a heavy plume, with which, while sleeping, the ant bear covers himself, looking, it is said, very much like a rough bundle of hay carelessly thrown upon the ground rather than a living [illegible] washed with gray on the head and face, and interspersed with white hairs. The throat is black, and a long triangular black mark arises from the throat and passes obliquely over the shoulders. There are four toes on the fore feet, and five on the hind feet; provided with long, curved claws, which are very inconvenient in locomotion, but form efficient weapons. When walking the claws of the fore feet are folded back, the weight resting on the knuckles.

Starting in the World.

Many well-meaning parents deny themselves the ordinary comforts of life that they may save money with which to give their children a start in the world, as it is called. Setting a young man afloat with money is like tying corks under the arms of one who cannot swim. Ten chances to one he will lose his corks and go the bottom. Teach him to swim, and he won't need the corks!

Foreign News.

THE CONGRESS.

A London dispatch of the 26th says that the Russians have 52,426 sick in the Balkan peninsula and of recruits raised in 1877 for the Armenian campaign, 25 per cent. are dead.

BEACONSFIELD WONT YIELD.

The London Times' Berlin correspondent reports that Lord Beaconsfield in conversation with Prince Bismarck, who urged him to make concessions, said: "I did not come here to yield."

THE QUEEN OF SPAIN.

A Madrid dispatch of the 25th inst., says that the condition of the queen is still serious, but she passed a quiet night. No fresh hemorrage has occurred, and the physicians have not lost hope.

London advices of the 25th of June, say the new Autonomon's province south of the Balkans is to be named Eastern Roumelia. All the Berlin correspondents agree in declaring that the settlement of the Bulgarian question is entirely due to the firmness of the British representative in the congress. The Russian concessions on this head again are said to be entirely dependent on the conditions for organization and administration of Roumelia. One condition is that the Russian troops when they evacuate Roumelia, are to be replaced by native militia, composed of Christians and Mussulmans, according to the prevailing religion of the district. The French representatives in the congress support Lord Beaconsfield's demands on the Bulgarian question.

The Times says it considers the alleged settlement as nothing less than the abandonment by Russia of the policy which has guided her relations with Turkey during the last hundred years. The process of piece-meal nibbling at Turkey's outlying provinces, and the periodical reopening of the eastern question whenever circumstances seemed to favor it, would have been continued by the extension of Bulgaria south of the Balkans under Russian influence.

AS FAR AS EVER FROM CONSTANTINOPLE.

The Post says Russia is now authoritatively told that she is as far from Constantinople, if not indeed further, as she was when the war began. Herein lies the bitterness of mortification to which she must now submit. In Monday's sitting the right of the sultan to place on the Roumelian frontiers whatever number of troops he deems necessary for security was admitted in principle, but at the same time Russia proposed a series of amendments which England refused to accept. The congress also fixed nine months as the term to be allowed Russia for withdrawing her troops from Eastern Roumelia and Bulgaria. It is generally thought that Russia, in to-day's sitting, will, in return for this concessior, withdraw her amendments, and that the chief points relative to Bulgaria will be definitely settled. There is evidently a close alliance between England and Austria, but each naturally comes most prominently forward on points involving its own interests. Thus the Austrians took a prominent part in the discussion relative to garrisoning the Balkans, but will play first part in the approaching discussions relative to the organization of Bulgaria. The Austrians hesitate to concede Varna to Bulgaria. The British do not seem to share the Austrian objections.

A COMPROMISE.

A Berlin correspondent writing under date of June 25th says that it is stated that a military compromise between Russia and Turkey is imminent. The Russians will concentrate around Adrianople and the Turks will evacuate.

THE PEACE CONGRESS AND ITS POINTS OF AGREEMENT.

A Berlin dispatch under date of June 22nd says the Plenipotentiaries of England, Russia and Austria this evening agreed to the following points, which will be submitted to the congress to-morrow for ratification: The frontier of Northern Bulgaria to be fixed at the Balkans. The Turks are to have the right to fortify the Balkan passes, and to garrison the fortified places. Sofia is to be included in Roumelia, and Varna in Bulgaria. The Turks are to retain Burgas. The northern frontier of Montenegro and the boundaries of Servia are to be restricted, those countries to receive compensation on the south. A telegram from Constantinople constrained the Russians to thus settle these questions. At the same time the solution is equally due to personal intervention of Prince Bismarck.

PROGRESS OF THE BERLIN CONGRESS.

A Berlin correspondent writing under date of June 21st says that a compliance of Prussia with the demand of England and Austria, for the evacuation of Bulgaria by the Russians, on or shortly after the conclusion of peace, and garrisoning of the Balkan line by the Turks, is deemed the sine qua non on which the success of the congress depends. The private conference of Russian, Austrian and English plenipotentiaries, on Thursday afternoon, lasted two hours without arriving at any serious result relative to the Bulgarian question, though accord was effected on several minor points. It is probable that in order not to alarm the public by continual abortive sittings of congress, the next sitting will be postponed until Monday or Tuesday so that the above mentioned three powers may come before congress with an agreement. Turkey will accept whatever England decides or in relation to Bulgaria. It is believed Russia will ultimately give way.

CRAZY BULLOCKS LOOSE.

They Get Abroad a Schooner, Create a Panic, Drown, and Break Their Legs.

Philadelphia Times.

Mr. Reginald Powers is a capitalist of New York, who owns a great tract of land in Texas, where 10,000 head of stock crop the grass and grow fat. He also owns nearly 1,000 acres of sandy, sterile land on the eastern shore of Virginia which is not profitable, and it occurred to him that it might result to its benefit to stock the Virginia ranche with a breeding lot from his Texas possessions. Accordingly he ordered two car-loads of bulls and cows to be shipped by rail to Philadelphia, and chartered the schooner Mary Elizabeth to transport the long-horned kind from this port to Chincoteague. The cars arrived yesterday and [illegible] conveniently placed, and a bridge [illegible] ing been put at the door of one car, the wild animals were invited to step out. They stepped out with an eagerness that sent the two men having them in charge flying for safety to the car-top. One broke its leg by falling from the car bridge. Three others became entangled in a pile of stones, and the remaining seven, with wild eyes, tossing horns and tails erect, rushed about the pier, striking consternation into the hearts of a gang of stevedores. They scampered into the cabin and forecastle, and one bull, larger than the rest sprang on to the deck of the brig, struck his feet in a coil of rigging, and, by his own impetus, turned a somersault over the outer rail of the vessel into the water. Another great red beast rushed along the waterfront, and finding a convenient place, plunged for a crowd of boys who were bathing. The boys separated without delay. The other animals ran about the pier knocking over barrels and boxes. A crowd had gathered and a demonstration was made in the direction of securing the beasts. The scene ensuing was the most ludicrous to any one enjoying it from a safe place. The men, with many shouts and gesticulations, would advance along the pier, and the cattle would return shake their three-feet horns and bellow. Then the crowd would disperse with expedition. Finally Mr. Powers himself appeared upon the scene, and sending some men in a boat to the end of the pier, he had the cars drawn up as near as possible and made a line of carts and boxes to the car through which to drive the cattle. Five men with great clubs attempted to force the five frightened beasts up the gangplank. The animals becoming more frightened resisted, and finally, drove their human drivers off the wharf, and making a rush to the end thereof, plunged into the water. One, probably injured by the fall, sank out of sight at once, but the others were landed and secured in a meadow on the other side of the river. The animal that fell over the side of the brig swam down the river and was lost. Two of the three that got stuck in the stone pile were shot where they lay, their legs being broken. The other was rescued.

A REMARKABLE EXECUTION.

Nine Chilian Criminals Expiate Their Offenses.

San Francisco Chronicle.

A private letter from Valparaiso to a resident of this city gives a dismal account of the execution of nine leaders for inciting a rebellion against the government. The prisoners were tried after their arrest, and sentenced to be executed on the 18th of March at two o'clock. The day dawned bright and cheerful, and as the hour drew near hundreds assembled at the place of execution to witness the carrying out of the death sentence. At the appointed time the prisoners were marched forth and formed in line. Never did men awaiting death appear more calm or indifferent. Before seating themselves on the banks surrounding the square they asked pardon for what they had done. Then removing their coats they threw them into the air with the greatest nonchalance. They looked gay and happy; no muscle displayed the slightest quivering, nor did their countenances undergo any change. The execution took place in Punta Arenas. The letter gives the following details of the conviction and execution of the prisoners: Their trial took place the 1st of March, and as the proof was strong against them, conviction immediately followed. On the 15th, at 1 o'clock, the sentence was read to the condemned men, and the day for their execution set for the 18th. Forty-two were implicated in the revolution, one of the number being a woman. Nine were sentenced to death and the rest to serve different terms in the penitentary at Valparaiso and Santiago, their imprisonment varying from one to eleven years. The woman was sentenced to ten years in the house of correction at Santiago. At the completion of the reading of the sentence the

were put in irons and the rest on board the steamer Magellan, to be transported to Valparaiso. Precisely at 1 o'clock on the 18th of March, the soldiers from the steamers Magellan and O'Higgins formed a hollow square with the regular troops in the yard of the Artillery park. In the centre were drawn up in line forty-five infantry with loaded rifles who were to act as executioners. Two carriages were in waiting to convey the condemned men to the place of execution. The prisoners, however, asked the commandant, as a last favor, to be allowed the privilege of walking, which was readily granted. Mr. Eckers, the commandant, remarked that if they had the strength to walk the four hundred yards to the place selected for the execution he would not object. At 2 o'clock the solemn procession reached the designated spot; and, as preliminaries had been completed early in the day, no time was lost in carrying out the sentence. The major who commanded the troops then read a document containing a warning that any one who asked the government to pardon the condemned should also be condemned to death. Senor Urculio read the death sentence, after which the prisoners were placed in proper position. One of the latter requested permission to say a few words and spoke briefly as follows: "Gentlemen: I pardon everybody who have been the means of my conviction and ask their pardon in return, though Senor Olivaria and the adjutant have not asked me to pardon them. Nevertheless I freely forgive them, and wish the government would make Olivaria and Gracia frigate captains. Good-bye, all." Another of the condemned men said: "I wish all good-bye and ask your forgiveness, and hope you will take care of my little son." A third: "I forgive you all. I depart from this miserable world. My father calls me; I go to him. Idie as a Chilian, and should like to hold a flag while

MEETING DEATH.

I have always been an artillerist. Good-bye, all." At the conclusion of his speech he threw his coat far from him and took his seat. Several others spoke briefly in a similar strain. After being tied, the soldiers who were detailed to carry out the sentence of the court advanced until within about two yards of the prisoners. At 2:30 o'clock the officer in command gave the signal, and immediately a sharp report of musketry rang out in the air, and nine lifeless bodies lay upon the ground. The soldiers were then marched to their various quarters and the assembled people straggled slowly homeward, discussing the affair, satisfied that the laws had been vindicated, and that the condemned men only met their deserts. Thus closed the career of nine desperate murderers, who had perpetrated the most henious crimes, and most richly deserved the punishment they received.

Poverty and Suffering.

"I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did them no good. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year [illegible] a trifle. [illegible] not take the usual condiments, such as pepper and salt."—New York Tribune.

JUDGING from the absence of any recent announcement of a plan of ocean travel on the part of the "Woodruff Expedition," it appears that the French rival enterprise will probably have the start in getting under way, as it has been definitely announced that the steamer Picardie—a vessel of 1560 tons and 1000 horse-power—will leave Marseilles on the 30th of June, under the command of Lieutenant Biard. This is under the patronage of the French Society of Circumnavigation, organized with a somewhat similar object as the Woodruff Expedition, proposing to carry a number of students for purposes of entertainment and instruction. It is stated that the passenger list is very nearly filled.

There was such dismay and astonishment in the voice that I looked up in surprise, to find that he was not greeting me, but a tall, slender girl coming toward him. Such a sight! She was dark and beautiful, dressed in a thin dress of rose-pink, faultless about the face and throat, out from the waist down, clinging to her, one mass of the greenest, blackest, thickest mud and water.

"In the duck pond," she answered with a voice as clear and musical as a chime of bells. "Don't come near me."

"You are enough to wear a man into his grave!"

NOTES AND NEWS.

The Michigan Central R. R. and its branches will carry passengers at half rates July 3d and 4th.

A man named Peter Flagg was found dead in his room at Jackson on Friday. Cause of death unknown.

The whole press of the country seems to be more hopeful since the adjournment of Congress.

The Eaton County Democratic Convention will be held in Sampson Hall, Charlotte, July 6th, at 1 p. m.

The Democratic State Convention will be held in the Opera House, Lansing, Wednesday July 10, at noon.

W. W. Haskins, a farmer living near St. Joe, quarreled with his son while returning from a carouse last week, and shot him with a revolver, leaving him helpless by the roadside. The son will die, and the father has been arrested.

At the annual meeting of the M. C. R. R. at Detroit this week, Mr. Vanderbilt declared that road; he and his friends have the full management now; he has also taken possession of the eastern part of the Chicago and Northeastern R R. This means higher rates of local freight—as there will be no competition.

The South Bend Flow.

One of the leading and most attractive features among the grand sights to be seen on the fair grounds during our fair was the New South Bend Chilled Plow manufactured by the St. Joseph Reaper and Machine Co. of South Bend, Ind. They had displayed in a most handsome and tasty manner a fine collection of very handsome plows. Some we discovered were very handsomely ornamented and very finely polished, showing the great superiority of their steel over all other plows in the market. We were highly pleased to see the great interest taken in this plow; all other plows on the ground seemed to be forgotten, and this new plow in our midst seemed to absorb all the attention. We were also happily surprised to find in talking with our neighboring farmers that this plow was being generally introduced in this county. We also learned from the Company's Michigan State agent, Mr. S. T. Green who was representing the Co. interests during our fair, that Messrs. Castle Bros. of Constantine, sold nearly 100 of these plows this spring, that E. W. Enoch, of Three Rivers, has met with grand success, also Mr. D. D. Antes, of our village, has had a thriving trade this year on these plows. Also that, their agents throughout the State were meeting with grand success everywhere, and from what we could learn among those that have used it, and have seen it, that it was leading all its competitors throughout this county, and the entire State. Its success is unrivalled in the history of plows. Its superior clearing qualities, its ease of draft, its strength, its super metal, and finish, all go to show why it has been so much more successful than other plows where it is known. The above facts go to prove the good sense and practicability of our farmers in St. Joseph Co., in purchasing this plow, and we gladly welcome this new improved plow in our midst. We can truly say that it has no equal, and that it is the very best plow now before the people. We would recommend all to test the merits of this new plow in freference to any other. (All honor to to whom honor is due.) St. Joseph Co. Republican.

Slanderers.

Whisky under ordinary circumstances can and does do a great deal of mischief. But, when you desire to see the devil do his best work at torturing poor humanity, just call and see him when he has turned a lot of long and limber tongues loose in a community. There is a class of creatures—hes and shes—things that are neither men nor women—they are hyenas in human form, and they gorge themselves to the full on the foul and fetid falsehoods that continually ooze from the slimy and stinking sewers of each other's mouths. Their daily food is falsehood and filth; and the more nauseating and nasty, the more nourishing and nutritious to these gloating ghouls. Their daintiest dish is served up in its most savory manner when two or three of them meet to bandy bawdy lies about some good and virtuous girl or woman. These he-harlots of hades are always happiest when spreading the spawn of their lecherous lies over the tainted name of wife or mother, for by so doing the devilish ichor dripping from their ulcerous lips will eat through and poison the whole family. The she-scorpions are the samples which Satan's drummers have located in each village to show to mankind the meanest thing on earth or in hell—a tell-tale termagant. Shut your ears and doors against them. Let these filthy fiends feel that you loathe them as you do the sow that is fresh from her wallow. If the long-eared and long-tongued hound comes into your presence, bid him begone and return to his vomit. Kick those skunks of society from your path. Make them feel that they are no more welcome to your homes or in your presence than is the bedbug or the polecat. Show these vermin that there is no place for them in decent society any more than there is for the buzzard, the bawd, or the house-infesting bat. Sooner would we welcome to our humble home a slimy snake than one of these babbling, tattling, scandal-serving cesspools that befoul society.—Ottawa (Iowa) Onward.

THE CENTENNIAL FANNING MILL.

PERFECTION AT LAST ATTAINED.

The Wants of Millers, Grain Buyers and Farmers Supplied.

F. E. TERRY, OF EATON RAPIDS, STATE AGENT.

Every careful, practical farmer knows the importance of sowing clean seed, and manufacturers knowing how farmers have been annoyed and damaged by defective fanning mills, and feeling assured that farmers would purchase a good thing when presented to them, have spared neither labor nor expense to invent such a machine. It is not alone the kind of grain, but its condition in reaching the miller and the general market, that governs its grade and price.

We have had mills to fit grain for seed, and another to fit it for market, but we now have a machine that combines these important prerequisites; viz; The Centennial Fanning Mill. This machine is destined to take the lead of all others now in use. One must see and examine this machine in order to be fully impressed with its superior advantages, its rollers made of chilled iron to guard against the wear of the machine itself, and the muscular power that runs it. A boy will turn this mill with greater ease than a man will run the ordinary machines.

The manufacturers claim for this mill the following advantages over all competitors:

1st. Our Mill is an excellent chaffer, having plenty of wind and shake.

2nd. It separates oats from wheat, also all small seeds, such as cockle, pigeon grass, wild buckwheat, and many other wild seeds that grow with wheat, at one operation, having a screen as long as any three ordinary Fan Mills, having two shoes, the lower one to carry the screens; we are enabled to adjust the screens in such a manner as to make two qualities of grain or one quality, or a larger quantity of one than the other.

3d. Our Mill will separate all the foul seeds, such as mustard, smartweed, pigeon grass, wild buckwheat, yellow seed and many others that grow with flax from flax at one operation. Having two shoes we are enabled to arrange sieves of different sized mesh in the top shoe to remove all the larger seeds, the flax and smaller seeds passing to the screens in the lower shoe. This shoe has several grooves or places to receive the different screens. Said screens can be arranged to carry the flax out under the head of the Mill, or they may be arranged so that all or a part of the flax may be run out at either side of the Mill, there being a spout on both sides. By this arrangement we are able to grade the flax to any desired grade. This Mill is provided with blinds or covers for shutting off the wind when desired.

4th. It cleans timothy seed, separating the clover and red top at the same operation, delivering the timothy at one side and the clover at the other, and the red top and sand in the box under the screen.

5th. It cleans clover seed, separating the timothy seed or all other seed larger or smaller than the clover.

It is provided with a double shake motion having two pinions, one being smaller than the other: all that is necessary to do is to change the shake rod from one to the other, thus imparting a quick, short or long shake to the shoes.

With these five different shakes this mill can be adjusted for all kinds of grain or seed.

The head of the mill or drum is secured to the posts by means of metallic hooks, the lower ones forming handles; therefore they are never dropping off as is the case when they fasten the head on with wooden keys or wedges.

This mill is acknowledged to be the lightest running one in the market. Its iron bearings are chilled, and having two shoes that are so constructed that when in motion one shoe moves in an opposite direction from the other, thus having a balance-like motion, which no other Mill has.

Our Mills are made from the best seasoned lumber, superior workmanship, neatly finished with two good coats of paint, striped and varnished in first class style."

We clip the following from the Charlotte Leader of last week.

After a careful examination of the mill we have no doubt at all but that they can substantiate every claim put forth. Knowing, as they do, that they have a sharp competition to meet, they must of necessity depend upon the merits of their mill to successfully introduce and sell it. And as the mill is made in the most complete manner, of the best material, at a cost of one-third more than any other mill in the market, and is sold at the same price as others, it is evident they are giving their patrons a big benefit for the sake of thoroughly introducing their invention at the earliest possible moment. Indeed, in many instances farmers have been so pleased with this mill that they have bought it and set away other mills heretofore considered the best in the market. Two weeks ago we examined the agent's books and found that one hundred orders had been taken since April 1st. This of itself is evidence sufficient to bring the keenest attention of the grain growing public to this mill, but in addition to the fact that orders are received by Mr. Terry almost daily from a distance, soliciting agencies and commissions to sell the mill, we feel pleased are there with it and so satisfied of its merits

One of [illegible] possessed by the Centennial is the perfect manner in which it separates seed from [illegible] ground. Almost any farmer can make it pay for itself in a single year by using it for this purpose only, as it will add to the quality and value of their crops more than the price of the mill, by keeping the ground free from foul stuff and saving the entire strength of the soil for the grain.

Many other mills have been met in competition and in every instance the Centennial has proved victorious, showing its superiority to the entire satisfaction of the men who have used other mills and are competent to judge of their merits without favor or prejudice.

Mr. F. E. Terry, who is general agent for Michigan—a gentleman of great business energy, tact and pluck—has appointed the following named gentlemen as and assigned them their respective fields of labor:

Messrs. Doak & Powers, of Springport, will supply Jackson and Calhoun counties.

Messrs. Houpt and Perrine will furnish Leslie and vicinity, and Mr. Clark Miller, Mason and vicinity, in Ingham county.

"Molt" Miller has unlimited territory, and will sell wherever his inclinations may lead him.

Mr. H. P. Willis will take care of Onondaga and vicinity, in Ingham county, and E. L. Jopp, of Eaton Rapids, will look after Charlotte and vicinity and Barry county.

Mr. Terry will appoint other active agents for other portions of the State as soon as possible, who will introduce and sell this celebrated mill in various localities; but his own headquarters will be at Eaton Rapids. He will personally attend our County Fair in September next; but should any one wish a mill in the meantime, it can be obtained, by addressing F. E. Terry, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

THE WHIPPLE GUIDE.

Every Farmer Should Have One

Mr. Terry is also general agent for the above valuable invention, which must satisfy any one who carefully examines it, of its great utility. Manufacturers of wagons, mowers and reapers generally have become so strongly impressed with the value and practicability of the Guide, that they have incorporated it into their business. Mr. Terry has certificates of many responsible men and firms who have examined and adopted this invention.

The manufacturers of this invention give the following very sensible reasons why every man using a wagon or other farm implements should have the Whipple Wagon Guide and Draft Shift:

It is a direct purchase from the wheel.

It gives a direct leverage of both horses over either wheel when it strikes an obstruction.

It prevents sore necks and shoulders.

A team can haul one-quarter more over a rough road.

And the price is so trifling that no teamster or farmer can afford to be without one.

We have the assurance to say, from our own experience and scores of others who have used this horse-saving invention, that those who make a business of farming or teaming can save the price of it a dozen times a year.

Our main point in this invention is the direct purchase that both horses have over either wheel when it strikes an obstruction, and by a direct draft from the team to either wheel there is a gain in power or leverage of nearly one third, or nearly one horse over the obstructed wheel. And this direct draft prevents the wheel from dropping back or swinging around when it strikes an obstruction as far as it would if the Guide was not brought into use, therefore overcoming a great many heavy and sudden jerks of the pole.

The saving in tongues and hounds by the use of this invention ought alone to sell it, as the reader will readily perceive by the cuts that there is no draught on the pole or hounds.

We are satisfied that the merit, price, simplicity, and being so easily attached, will recommend it to all wide awake individuals and lovers of improvement.

As an evidence of the growing popularity of this Guide, we quote the following from the circular of Fish Bros. & Co., of Racine, Wisconsin, who have one of the largest wagon manufactories in the West:

"We call the attention of farmers and teamsters to the Whipple Guide, an improvement we are now using on our celebrated wagons. Wishing to keep up with the times, we stand ready to adopt any improvement of merit that will be beneficial to our customers. We have thoroughly tested this invention, and not only find it practical, but highly recommended by all that use it. Having shipped several hundred to our trade, and they having given general satisfaction (with increasing demand), has induced us to make the guide a part of our wagon.

"You will observe by the cut, that in using this invention, the whole draught is on the evener, and no draft or strain on the axles; consequently the slide irons and clips can be dispensed with.

"The Guide can be attached to old wagons as well as new, and agents will find it to their advantage to elevate a portion of their trade by introducing this article.

Any further particulars may be obtained by addressing the agent, Mr. F. E. Terry, Eaton Rapids, Mich.
