Institute For Teachers

At Walton Township Unit School At Olivet, Monday, March 23, Starting at 9:15 in Morning

The institute will be held in the Walton township unit school at Olivet, Monday, March 23. The meeting will be built around the subject of guidance. It will be directed by Harry S. Dennison, County school Commissioner, assisted by Carl M. Horn, State Board of Control for Vocational Education. A county committee composed of Jonas Sawdon, superintendent of Grand Ledge schools; Miss Fern Parsons, superintendent of Walton township schools; Miss Winifred Wells, assistant principal at Charlotte high school; S. H. Ray, science teacher at Bellevue high school; Mrs. Kathryn Quick, grade teacher from Eaton Rapids; Roger Heath, principal of Potterville high school; and Mrs. Inez Smith, principal of the Aldrich school in Oneida township, are assisting in working out this program.

The meeting will open at 9:15 with music by the band of the Walton township schools directed by Samuel Robinson of Olivet college. Invocation will be given by Reverend Hartshorne of the Congregational church of Olivet.

At 9:30 a general panel discussion on the subject "Counseling of Pupils in Time of War", will be directed by Carl Horn of Northwestern University and Dr. Ruth Cunningham of the National Education Association, together with a high school principal, a parent, an employer, a minister, a rural teacher, a college student, a high school graduate, a high school senior, and a high school freshman. At ten o'clock the general assembly will break up for assembly groups.

52 Less Than Last Year

Total of 7,197 Passenger Car Plates Sold for 1942

Full-year 1942 license plates taken out at the county license bureau to Tuesday included 4,169 sets for passenger cars, or 25 less than were issued at the same time last year, 213 for commercials, 183 for farm commercials, and 1,051 trailer plates. Half-year plates included 3,028 sets for passenger cars, or 153 more than in 1941 at this time, 417 commercial and farm commercial stickers, and 64 trailer plates. The total of passenger car tags for 1942 is 7,197, as compared with 7,249, or 52 more, at this time last year. The prospects are that from now on mostly half-year licenses will be taken out, because of the lack of new and used car sales. Mrs. Mary DuBois, manager of the bureau, said that during the recent rush of business for seven days, 4,183 licenses were sold. During the same period in 1941 the number sold was 4,007.

County Officers Attend FBI Course

Eaton county officers attended the FBI school of instruction for civilian defense held last week in Kalamazoo. John Kennedy, federal agent, and others were the instructors. Deputies McCotter, Bruce and McWhorter were in attendance the full week, and Sheriff Krieg, Undersheriff Peck and Deputy Ward part of the time. Instruction was given in regard to blackouts, handling of incendiary and explosive bombs, gas, duties of air-raid wardens, etc. Sheriff Krieg said it was a most thorough course, and that the organization of air-raid wardens, only now in progress, is the prime factor in civilian defense and their training the most essential of any given during the present emergency.

High Water All Week

Monday's Hard Rain Brought River and Spring Brook Dangerously High

High water together with the hard, all-day rain of Monday caused considerable anxiety here the first of the week. The banks of the Grand ran full and the possibility of the flash boards at the Smithville dam giving way and letting an additional amount of water over had to be considered. Spring brook on the west side of town was exceptionally high especially where the race and it joined at the schoolgrounds. Island park was submerged at the north end and the small island beside it showed only the top. Most of the island below the sanitary dam was reported under water.

The temperature rose to 56 degrees Monday night, dropping to from 30 to 40 Tuesday and Wednesday, with a little light snow.

U & I Club

Twenty members and two guests of the U & I Club enjoyed a talk by Miss Betty Youngs, instructor in the Art Department of our local high school, at the home of Mrs. William Browne, last Thursday. Mrs. Charles Poor was chairman of the program. The Music and Art Department assisted the hostess.

Miss Youngs topic was art in every day life. She pointed out that the pictures in our homes should reflect our personalities and not just something to hang on the walls to fill up space. "Pictures," she said, "should be changed as our moods and characters change, we keep up to date in our books and magazines, why not in our pictures?" Where to place a picture on the wall for the greatest effect was discussed. Many prints and etchings were shown by Miss Young and a list of places to purchase prints reasonably was available to the members.

New officers elected for next year were — Mrs. H. V. Webster, President—Mrs. David Fox, Vice President, — Mrs. Donald Staebler, Recording Secretary — Mrs. James Corbett, Corresponding Secretary — Mrs. Wallace Knapp, Treasurer — Mrs. E. J. Hutson, Parliamentarian — Mrs. Waldo Sherman, Historian.

Following the program tea was served with Mrs. Arthur Jowett presiding at the tea table, which was decorated in St. Patricks Day colors.

The next meeting on March 26th will be at the home of Mrs. Arthur Jowett, with the home and garden department in charge of the program.

Juniors to Give "Dear Daffodil"

"Dear Daffodil", a comedy in three acts by Dana Thomas will be presented at the Eaton Rapids high school auditorium sharply at 8:00 Wednesday evening, March 25. The cast is comprised of members from the Junior class and is directed by Miss Stella Thompson.

Phyllis Charlefour and Ray Stone will delight you in the leading roles. Daisy Dobson will turn in an excellent performance as the mother of four who knows she would have been a famous artist if she had not married the town bandmaster. This latter role will be portrayed by Dick Vinson who will do full justice to the clever lines. Excellent performances are also promised by Thelma Torrence as a lovely but spoiled daughter, and Chuck Gulliver as the boy who proves that love is blind. Also contributing outstanding work will be Betty Krumm, Janet Squires, Dell Bramble, Joe Ballentine, Duane De Veau and Louise Wilson.

The Junior class extends to you a special invitation to forget your cares and renew your spirits by attending this performance. Remember the time—Wednesday at 8:00 p.m.; the place—E. R. H. S. auditorium; the play—"Dear Daffodil." General admission 28c, and you can get reserved seat tickets at Blackmore's for 39c. (x)

See Pictures of London Fire, Mar. 30

W. E. Forward, city fire chief, reports that the State Fire Marshall or a member of the State Police will be here next Monday evening, March 30, to show pictures of London fire, war and conditions and how to handle incendiary bombs. The pictures will be shown at the school house at seven-thirty. Admission is FREE and all are urged to see these most instructive pictures. Win says we have no conception of what fire means until we have seen a fire set from bombing nor what it means to fight such a fire. Remember, at the school house Monday evening, March 30, at 7:30 o'clock.

Scout First Aid Work

Troops of County to Aid in All Lines of Defense Work, Including Messenger and Fire Spotter Work

Eight officers of Eaton District, Chief Okemos Council, Boy Scouts of America, headed by E. A. Kelford, district chairman, met in Charlotte Monday noon to complete plans for first-aid contests and for further Scout participation in the Civilian Defense programs of the county.

It was decided to hold two First-Aid-Oree's this year. Troops 43 of Dimondale, 51 and 52 of Eaton Rapids, and 52 of VFW National Home will compete in Eaton Rapids on Tuesday evening, April 7. Michael Montie was appointed to make arrangements of place, and to secure the necessary judges. One judge will be required for each patrol participating. Here is an opportunity for men or women who have just finished their Red Cross first aid courses to help extend First Aid training, and enjoy an unusual experience.

Charlotte troops 44, 45 and 46, Olivet 50, Vermontville 48, and Potterville 54 will compete in Charlotte later that same week Members of these same troops will also complete their preparation for advancement to second and first class ranks, for a Board of Review will be held in Charlotte high school Thursday evening, April 9, at 7:30 p. m.

Discussion of "Salvage for Victory" indicated that Scouts of Charlotte, and Scouts and Cubs of Eaton Rapids are actively engaged in their local salvage operations. Besides the collection of scrap metal, waste paper, old rags, rubber the local troops are being asked to help the Food for Victory campaign, to prepare for service as Messengers to local air raid wardens, as fire Spotters and Aids to First Aid Squads.

Girl Scouts

Troop 1 — Joint meeting of troop 1 and 3 discussed plans for a potluck supper next Monday night at 6:30. Passed badges and played games.

Girls of Troop 3, be sure and bring your parents to pot luck supper. Mr. May, guest from Lake Louise, will be there to show moving pictures of north.

Scribe, Arlene Punter

Melting of the recent snowfall, followed by heavy rains, flooded country roads and caused damage to many culverts in the county. The bridge over Thornapple river south of the Moyer school house, a few miles south of Mulliken, is reported in a dangerous condition and the road closed. Washouts across roads have caused damage that will cost several thousand dollars to repair. Motorists should avoid unsurfaced county-township roads as much as possible because of the early spring breakup occasioned by the frost leaving the ground, urges Harvey A. Williams, secretary of the county highway department.

Help Sale of Easter Seals

Proceeds to Go Toward Care of Crippled Children and Soldiers

Every resource of the National Society for Crippled Children, Inc., and its forty-two affiliated state associations has been offered the nation to "help meet the great problem of the wounded or permanently handicapped soldier," Rev C. W. Punter, chairmen of the underprivileged children Kiwanis club Easter seal sale said today.

The annual sale of Easter seals to finance the program of the Eaton Rapids Society for Crippled children as well as that of the National Society opened March 17. It will close on Easter Day, April 5.

"The problem of the returned soldiers who will have suffered permanent physical disability in defense of our country is one which undoubtedly is being, or soon will be, considered by our national leaders. It is a task which may well require not only expanded government facilities, but every existing resource of a private and volunteer nature," said Mr. Punter, quoting National president, E. W. Palmer's statement.

"For more than twenty years the National Society for Crippled children has been engaged in organizing and fostering a program for the physical correction, education, vocational rehabilitation, and employment of physically handicapped persons.

"Identified with our organization are nationally known experts in the vocational adjustment and re-employment of the crippled. Realizing the expanding need of this kind of service as the war progresses, the National Society for Crippled Children and its state associations are determined to keep their organization intact, and bend every effort to meet the heavy demands the future will certainly make.

"In this tremendous national crisis I, as president of the Society, feel it my duty to assure you that our organization stands ready to make available every resource, that will help to meet the great problem of the wounded or permanently handicapped soldier.

"Ours is a nationwide volunteer group of long standing. As such, we place ourselves at the disposal of the Civilian Defense Organization to fulfill whatever you and our other national leaders feel we are equipped to handle. Fully aware of the great task you face, we reaffirm our loyalty and pledge again our unreserved support." Invest generously in the purchase of these penny Easter Seals.

Honored at Birthday Party

About twenty ladies from Eaton Rapids and several from Lansing were entertained at the home of Mrs. F. Quinn Murphy, in the Porter apartments, Lansing, Tuesday afternoon at a one o'clock luncheon and bridge. The occasion was in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Margaret Bromeling.

Luncheon was served in a private dining room of the Porter, the table being laid for twenty-four, and was a delight to the eye with its riot of colors in the decorations which consisted of gay ostrich feathers and bouquets of spring flowers. Green for St. Patrick's day was also worked into the color scheme. A feature of the luncheon was a beautiful birthday cake which was cut by Mrs. Bromeling. As the guests arrived each was given a corsage of mixed flowers, which they matched to the flowers on the place cards.

Following the meal the ladies returned to Mrs. Murphy's apartment for bridge where a profusion of spring flowers decorated the rooms. The flowers were presented Mrs. Murphy by Lansing friends. During the afternoon A. Alexanian of Lansing called Mrs. Bromeling to the telephone to listen to a number by his famous choir, singing in her honor. Later a photographer from the State Journal took pictures of the guest of honor.

Among those from here receiving bridge prizes were, Mrs. W. L. Hurd, Mrs. M. A. Vance, Mrs. C. A. Stimson, Mrs R. G. Toncray and Mrs. Mary Smith, with Mrs. Glen Speers of Charlotte.

Non-Partisan News Letter

(M. P. A. East Lansing)

While airplanes roared overhead hundreds of thousands of Michigan defense volunteers would be at their posts, ready for air raid bombing and fires.

Air raid wardens would scan the skies.

Volunteer nurses would be available for emergency calls.

Fire and police assistants would report for duty.

On the theory that "it can happen here," mobilization of Michigan defense workers on the home front is being considered by state defense officials for a designated Sunday this spring. Civil air pilots would simulate enemy raids. It would be a realistic test of Michigan's readiness to meet thrusts from the air.

Streamlining of the civilian defense program is proposed by Capt. Donald S. Leonard, state commander of the Citizens Defense Corps, who honestly believes that Michigan cities are in danger of attack from the air during 1942.

Taking a sensible viewpoint of the problem, Leonard plans to utilize all existing government agencies in behalf of home defense.

It is the responsibility of each community, he says, to enlist volunteers to assist police and fire forces —as a good example — to meet possible war emergencies.

Instead of bickering about federal and state aid, and otherwise "letting George do it" citizens should cooperate immediately with official authorities in taking steps for defense preparedness. So far, Michigan is far behind in meeting its quota.

Among the likely targets for enemy air raids, it is explained, are the Sault Ste. Marie locks on the St. Mary's river canal, the ore docks at Escanaba, Detroit munition plants such as the Chrysler tank arsenal, and the new Willow Run Ford bomber plant near Ypsilanti.

Fantastic as the idea might have appeared three to six months ago, it is entirely feasible today in the opinion of army authorities. Lieut. General Ben Lear, visiting Fort Custer for an inspection, told reporters that enemy bombers could base in the Hudson bay district and easily fly to Michigan.

Equally important in modern warfare would be its propaganda value: The home moral stimulant from such a raid to inland centers of the United States. (Imagine how we would thrill over newspaper headlines of an American air raid on Tokyo!)

The Yankee spirit of '42 is shown by the following public notice on the front page of a weekly newspaper in Wayne county, the Huron County Sentinel at Flat Rock:

"Have you a pail of sand in your attic and also a pail on the second floor of your home to extinguish an incendiary bomb? The village of Flat Rock has sand available for this purpose. Bring pails for sand to police headquarters. Merrell Page, Village Clerk."

Farmers are faced with a severe labor shortage, so warns Dean E. L. Anthony, department of agriculture at Michigan State College.

Anthony says farmers do not apparently realize the seriousness of the situation, caused by selective service demands. The American army in the last war numbered 3,673,888 men on Nov. 11, 1918; today military authorities are talking in terms of a 10,000,000 man AEF.

Michigan workers in industrial defense approximate 400,000, according to George H. Fern, State director of vocational education.

Todays labor surplus, due to conversion of automobile plants, is around 170,000. Within six months it will be replaced by a shortage, and Fern foresees greater employment of women in war plants. The Ford bomber plant at Willow Run is expected to employ 12,000 to 20,000 women.

Vernon J. Brown, state auditor general, recently bought a farm four miles east of Mason where he was born 60 years ago. As the Ingham County News at Mason heralded the event: "After a lot of hard work he has been able to get back where he was 35 years ago (when he abandoned the farm for city life.) Last Saturday he bought the old homestead back. He intends to plant the farm to alfalfa, buy a half-dozen bees, and a hen or two and be a gentleman farmer."

In the opinion of Federal Judge Frank A. Picard of Saginaw, the state's liquor control commission should exercise more control, not less; the state should gain from the profit, not the private merchant.

As reported by Guy H. Jenkins, ace booth correspondent at Lansing, the 1943 legislature may get recommendations to this effect from the three-man study commission appointed recently by the governor and headed by Picard.

Curfew regulations for sale of gasoline and oil are expected soon, reports William A. Palmer, director of the Michigan Petroleum Industries Committee. Reasons: Reduced consumption of gasoline, due to automobile and tire restrictions, is inflicting hardships on gasoline dealers; saving of eletricity for industrial needs.

But no rationing of gasoline is in prospect for Mid-West states.

In fact, it's just the other way. Today's surplus of refined gasoline is the largest in many years.

A court decision on the civil service commission's interpretation of the new state amendment is expected at Lansing this week. Approximately 2,800 state employees, formerly sponsored by political friends, are involved in whether they were discriminated against by the commission which accepted certain merit systems (state police and state conservation departments, for example), results of examinations conductde in 1937 and 1939, but required them to take competitive examinations.

Duck Soup

A story purported to be true is being told about a young woman sitting in a restaurant in Los Angeles talking to a friend. During her remarks she said: "Gee, I never made so much money in my life; I hope this war goes on forever." A man sitting at the next table overheard the remark, arose and walked over to the young woman and taking hold of her chin gave her a good slap on her left cheek saying: This is for the son I lost in the Phillipines." Slapping her on the other cheek he said: "and that is for the second son I lost since the war started."

Now we understand our congressmen are sore at the newspapers because they opposed their private pension system they voted for, and in retaliation are hinting that they will oppose any legislation giving the government an appropriation for advertising in the newspapers.

The following is from the pen of editor Berkey of Cassopolis, which is right to the point and should give everyone (including labor) something to think about.

Sitting down to read the evening paper and finding a whole column of labor strikes in industries making war equipment, and then finding on the same page that Gen. McArthur and his brave boys were casting their eyes skyward for help that doesn't come, and that our boys and their allies elsewhere have had to suffer defeats and the loss of many lives because of lack of equipment, gave us a jolt. We asked ourselves "Does our Government control labor, or does Labor control our government?" We could reach but one conclusion, and that is that Labor begins with a capital L, and government begins with a small g. Labor doesn't want anyone to share in the work of building war equipment for our boys unless they pay dues to the union; and after they pay their dues and get to work they cannot work over forty hours per week helping to build ships, airplanes, guns, etc., without they are paid time and one-half for overtime and double pay for Sundays and holidays; in other words, the man who draws twelve dollars per day, which is not uncommon in war work, would draw twenty-four dollars for Sunday. There you have it folks! No guns, no planes, no ships without the closed shop and the big pay; again, in other words, labor is not sacrificing and our coddling government is letting them get away with it. Some men will resent the statement that Labor is not sacrificing, but we ask you: is working forty hours per week for sixty dollars sacrificing? Or is it sacrificing to work another eight hours and draw $18.00 extra? Or $24 if it happens to be a Sunday or holiday? No, that is not sacrificing and you know it, and so do they. Is it loyalty? If so, what brand?

Michigan will soon have the largest airplane factory in the world—between Detroit and Ypsilanti, and it will be operated by 60,000 men and 15,000 women, who will draw a minimum wage of 95 cents per hour and up to $1.50 per hour. And now let's see how this could hook up with the paragraph above. This big plant will be safeguarded in every possible manner, but it is within reach of German planes. It is subject to attack, and when attacked the lives of all those workers are endangered as well as the lives of those for whom they fail to make equipment because of the attack. The attack finally comes; fighter planes, bomber planes, artillery and soldiers are rushed into the vicinity of the big plant to protect it; the workers are in danger; they grow frantic at what appears to them to be the apathy of the fighters; the latter have put in their eight hours for that day and want a guarantee of time and one-half if they are to continue fighting; it is only after much haggling and loss of time that they are granted the extra pay and resume the battle; in the meantime the enemy has gained much advantage; some of the laborers, now grown thoroughly frightened, attempt to help the soldiers by doing some shooting on their own account; but again the battle stops, this time for a very different reason; the soldiers strike because the workers who are trying to help do not belong to the military; the workers are amazed; they say the soldiers should accept all the help they can get, whether that help belongs to the military or just comes from private citizens, because the factory and the people in it are in danger; and the soldiers say "Oh, yeah! Why don't you let people build war equipment whether they belong to and pay dues to your union or not?" And thus they haggled and more time was lost, and in the meantime the Japs and the Hitlerites get all set to do their worst, and they blow that world's largest factory to pieces, kill thousands of workers and soldiers, and American boys and their allies in the far east wait in vain for the equipment that has been destroyed.

Well, something very much akin to it happened in France. They thought it couldn't happen, but it did.

You ask why we should present such a picture as the one above?

For a very good reason: Public sentiment against organized Labor's attitude of selfishness and greed must be aroused if that greed and selfishness is not to be the ruin of our country. Public sentiment, aroused by the newspapers, compelled Senator Brown of Michigan and the other senators and congressmen who voted for that pension grab to reverse themselves and public sentiment, when sufficiently aroused, can force Congress to protect the country from exploitation by Labor in perilous times; public sentiment can force congress to spell labor with a small l and government with a big G; and every one of you can help by taking a proper attitude when talking with your friends and neighbors. Let's all resolve that while we work to save America from Hitler and the Japs, we will also work to save America from mis-guided and greedy Americans.

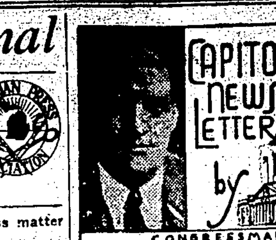
— Remember Pearl Harbor —

Capitol News Letter



by Congressman Paul Shafer

An attempt to make the people of America believe that the Congress was to blame for the failure to fortify Guam is proving a boomerang. It has resulted in the matter being thrown back into the lap of the Administration. It is a matter of record that the proposition to fortify this island possession in the Far East was never at actual issue before the Congress. It is true that in 1939 Congress considered an authorization of $5,000,000 for harbor improvements at Guam but the legislations in no way involved fortification.

The people remember that President Roosevelt has enjoyed a tremendous majority in both the House and Senate since 1933. He has been voted every authority and every appropriation he has requested in connection with national defense. He has never requested the fortification of Guam. On the contrary, action by the Budget Bureau — which is the Executive Department — indicated very clearly that the fortification of Guam was not on the President's program. The record shows that the Navy Department estimated that the full fortification of Guam would cost between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000. The matter was considered by the Budget Bureau and the amount requested was reduced to $5,000,000 to pay for only improvements such as a breakwater at Apra Harbor, removal of coral heads in Outer Harbor and a dredging of Inner Lagoon and connecting channel. No mention of fortification was made in the legislation which was rejected at a time when, on the list of essential naval projects, the improvements at Guam had to come far below battleships, aircraft carriers, planes and other vessels of war necessary for a two ocean Navy.

Under pressure of the White House and labor union leaders, the Congress recently rejected a bill to suspend the forty-hour week for the duration of the war. It is now a safe bet that it will not be long before the issue is again before the Congress and the next time it will receive more favorable treatment.

The forty-hour week presents an achievement of a goal for which labor has long fought and labor should not be expected permanently to relinquish this gain. But the nation is now at war and there is an ever-increasing demand upon labor to surrender its forty-hour week for the duration. Certainly, the forty-hour week is desirable, but so are rubber tires, automobiles, unlimited supplies of sugar and other luxuries the people have had to give up under the pressure of the emergency. There is a growing feeling in Congress that every one, including labor, must make the supreme effort if this war is to be won. The forty-hour week imposes excessive labor costs on the taxpayers who must pay for the war. With millions of young men in military service, on duty 24 hours a day, if necessary, for $30 a month, it ill behooves any group to insist upon the luxury of a limited work week, based on a mode of life that no longer exists in America.

Many letters received recently indicate that there remain a large number of people who believe that congressmen do not pay income taxes. The congressmen have paid income taxes as long as such a tax has been collected by the government, and to the same extent as all other taxpayers, except that a business or professional man is given a decided advantage. Business and professional men may deduct expenses incurred in the conduct of their businesses, including advertising. This is not true with congressmen. A congressman is not allowed deductions for the allowances paid him for the conduct of his office, mileage and legitimate expenses of his campaign for reelection which average around $2,500 every term. He is allowed no deductions for his maintenance of two homes, nor for contributions he makes to political committees, nor for the many demands made upon him by reason of his official position. The average income tax paid by the congressmen this year will amount to almost two month's salary. If the recommendations of Secretary Morgenthau are accepted, approximately four months of the congressman's salary will be returned to the government in income taxes next year.

There is no law that compels a man to become a member of Congress, but, naturally, members resent libelous charges that they exempt themselves from taxes.

Strong Root Growth

Encourage strong root growth, so that plants will not be easily uprooted. Dig deep and make a good soil bed, so that roots will spread down and out, making an anchor against the wind. Give deep and thorough soakings, especially in areas that call for almost daily summer watering. Remember that light sprinklings make for surface root-growth and that shallow roots make for plant heaving when the high winds come.

Hospitaler Circus Is Here Again

Eaton Rapids folk will have an opportunity the week of March 23 to 28 to witness all the best acts of the big tops when the sixth annual Hospitaler circus opens its doors at Demonstration Hall on the Michigan State College campus in East Lansing.

The circus this year is the finest and best ever staged by the Lansing Commandery Drill Corps. Each year, since the show was started back in 1937, bigger and better acts have been booked. This year the selection tops all previous seasons.

Children have not been forgotten, either, and there will be numerous acts arranged especially for the youngsters but which also will pack plenty of appeal for adults as well.

There will be coterie of clowns headed by the old reliable Emmet Kelley and Otto Griebling, Cole Brothers white horse, "Victory," the Orantos, a sensational perch act, Saxon Brothers in a marvelous balancing act, the Shooting Stars a flying trapeze number, Mickey King, queen of aerialists, the Pallenberg bears, those little brown rascals who will be remembered, especiall by the children, from last year's Hospitaler circus; Ray Goody in a sensatinal slide for life and gregoresko, the mon who hangs himself.

The Kimris, a French aerial act consisting of a novelty airplane stunt, one of the finest acts of its kind in show business will be here also, together with the iron jawed Dorothy Sisters, the famour riding act of the Loyal Repenskys, the Esteritas, a foreign tumbling act and Madam Terrell Jacobs, who works with numerous lions in a cage inside the arena. Then too there will be Liberty horses, trained seals and other acts.

The show will stage matinee and evening performances inside the large, well-heated Demonstration Hall, around which are ample parking spaces. Afternoon shows will start at 3:00 o'clock and evening performances at 8:15. (x)

AAA Program Amended

In order to secure a 10 per cent increase in production in needed war-time crops, the AAA Farm Program has been amended. The amendment aims at expansion of war crop acreage wherever necessary to increase production for 1942 and at continuation of soil-building practices to increase production through increased yields in 1942 and for the duration of the war. It extends the list of crops and landuses which may be used to meet the requirement that 20 per cent of the farm's cropland must be devoted to soil-building crops. Small grains such as oats and barley can now be seeded to legumes or grasses. The former provision that the nurse crop had to be clipped green or pastured has changed but the extent to which these crops qualify depends upon the acreage of war crops grown on the farm. An acreage of small grains seeded equal to 40 per cent of the total acreage devoted to war crops may be used to meet the 20 percent requirement.

It works this way: If a farmer has 100 acres of cropland, 20 percent or 20 acres must be planted in soil-building land uses. If he plants 30 acres of war-crops, say 10 acres each of beans, sugar beets and soybeans he could use 40 percent of 30 acres or 12 acres of small grain seeded to grasses or legumes which will leave only 8 acres more of hay or pasture needed for the 20 percent of land for soil-building practices. By shifting from old to new seedlings on small grain acreages, we can expand our war crop acreage.

The foregoing amendment is intended to stimulate the production of oil-producing crops to supplement imports of oil drastically cut by war in the Far East. It applies particularly to soybeans in Eaton County but sugar beets, dry beans, canning peas and tomatoes are also included. Eaton County White bean acreage in 1940 was 18,000 acres and in 1941 it was 24,300 acres.

Of interest topotato growers is the wollowing announcement concerning the price supporting program. This will affect the 21 commercial potato growers in Eaton county. Commercial growers are those who grow more than 3 acres. This price support is available to farmers who plant at least 80 percent but not more than 110 percent of their 1942 allotment. This price support program is not aimed at expanded production in 1942 but rather to assure full planting of the allotment. The plan calls for purchases by the Department of Agriculture when necessary to support the price of U.S. No. 1 potatoes with differentials for marketable potatoes containing 85 percent marketable potatoes. The Commodity Credit Corporation will make loans to and purchases from producers on the above grades Lower grade potatoes not needed for humanfood will be diverted into starch, livestock feed and other products when necessary to support the price of U.S. No. 1 potatoes. The price support will be provided at scheduled base prices for U.S. No. 1 grade sacked f.o.b. in carload lots, and appropriate price adjustments will be made for marketable potatoes grading 85 percent U.S. No. 1 and for potatoes in bulk and in storage if it becomnecessary to handle bulk or stored potatoes.

Sweet Potato Flour

Several young chemists in Mississippi looked sadly at field after field of surplus sweet potatoes left rotting in the ground. Then they put their heads together and produced an inexpensive sweet-potato flour that makes light, fluffy, golden-brown loaves and cakes. After testing the loaves the chemists announced that the new flour was a high-carbohydrate food, rich in vitamins.

New Loading Coils Save Copper and Nickel for War

A LOADING COIL is a doughnut-shaped contrivance of copper wire wound over a ring of alloy containing nickel. Its job is to give your voice an electrical "push" as you talk over a telephone line.

There is about one loading coil for every mile of an average Long Distance telephone circuit in cable —nearly half a million in Michigan alone, besides about 200,000 on local circuits.

For years the Bell System's research has been making these coils progressively smaller, yet keeping them as effective as the larger coils. Now, as a further step to help meet the shortage of war materials, loading coils have been developed that use only about half as much copper and nickel as the former type. The pictures indicate the latest reduction in size.

From this single source, in 1942, the Bell System will save an estimated 40,000 pounds of each of those needed metals.

• In spite of material shortages that make it increasingly difficult to satisfy all service requests as promptly as in the past, Michigan Bell is confidently determined that every war need will be met.

Rebecca in 'Ivanhoe'

It is an accepted fact that Sir Walter Scott modeled Rebecca in "Ivanhoe" after Rebecca Gratz, of Philadelphia, a Jewess who was noted for her beauty and intellect. An active and able worker in the cause of needy women and orphans, she founded the Philadelphia Hebrew Sunday school and directed it for 32 years. Scott never met Miss Gratz. She was the companion of Washington Irving's fiancee, Matilda Hoffman, who died before their wedding day, and Irving described her to him after Scott outlined the plan for "Ivanhoe."

Rayon Fabrics Make Lounging Apparel to Fit Modest Budget

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WE'RE all so busy these days, we appreciate more than ever the few precious hours when we can relax. Smart, flattering clothes for stay-at-home moments add immeasurably to the enjoyment of playing at being a lady of leisure. Thanks to the many fine rayon fabrics now available, there is luxurious lounging wear this season within the reach of every woman's clothes budget.

Unless you have explored the possibilities of dramatic at-home costumes, you will have no idea what they can do for your looks and your morale. Whether you're a busy wife and mother, or a tailored career woman, or a defense worker who has worn a uniform or practical, functional clothes, a graceful lounging costume will transform you into a clinging vine in the twinkling of an eye. For informal entertaining, for instance, such formal fabrics as crush-resistant rayon velvet, soft rayon satin, and svelte rayon jersey are draped and molded into gracious hostess gowns and strikingly trousered. Bejeweled or unadorned, dramatic or appealing, these lovely styles reflect the trend towards luxurious effects.

For a quiet evening at home, or a quiet morning or afternoon, there are enchanting styles in house coats, lounging robes, and negligees that are not only comfortable but look as well in the dining room as they do in the boudoir. Rayon jersey and velvet reappear in these fashions, as do rustling rayon taffetas, smooth rayon crepes and weaves. Wrap-around coat types are popular for the girl who likes her housecoat to do double duty as a dressing gown. The shirt-waist or round-necked styles look like frocks but have long concealed or zippered closings and may be slipped into with the greatest of ease.

Any college girl who happens to be the possessor of a cozy quilted lounging coat of crisp rayon taffeta in a gay plaid like that pictured to the right in the above illustration will be the envy of her classmates as she flits about in the dormitory or cuddles up in a big "comfy" chair in her room. The tailored collar may be worn snugly closed on cool mornings and the wide skirt flares nicely from a slim sashed waistline.

For extra warmth there are adaptable breakfast coats and lounging robes in luscious rayon taffeta, moire or satin, cosily quilted and cut on flattering fitted and flared lines with nice tailored details. For luxurious lounging the quilted housecoat centered in the picture above uses soft rayon satin in a colorful floral print. A snug set-in waistband with double-breasted buttoning accents the full, flared skirt. In a more intimate mood, matching gown and negligee sets in pastels and white are exquisite in fine rayon crepe or satin with lavish lace trim.

With luxurious rayon fabrics providing exciting grandeur, glamour is the keynote for at-home fashions such as the handsome hostess gown shown in the left in the picture above. This distinctive and gracious gown combines two high-fashion notes in its dramatic use of suave rayon jersey for fluid molded styling, plus a glorification of the sweater jacket for informal evening wear. In striking Chinese red, the soft rayon jersey is swathed snugly about the bodice and draped in sleek folds for the full, full skirt. Long sweeping lines are complemented by full bishop sleeves caught tight at the wrist. Brilliant red stones set in gold gleam from every square of the matching knit wool bolero with its shoulder-accenting cap sleeves.

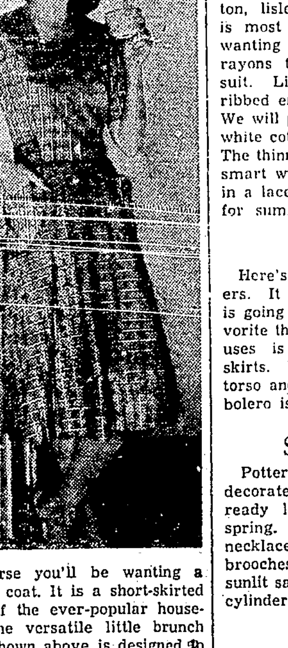
For Leisure



Of course you'll be wanting a "brunch" coat. It is a short-skirted version of the ever-popular housecoat. The versatile little brunch coat as shown above is designed to turn the most demure housewife into a beguiling glamour girl. In crisp, brightly plaided rayon taffeta the skirt is cut on dirndl lines, zips up the back, ties at the waist and is ready to make you look beautiful.

The Stocking Future? It Couldn't Be Brighter

Just because there is a lull in the silk supply and a possible shortage of nylon because of "priorities," there's no reason to worry about hosiery futures. The inflow of stocking fashions that make use of cotton, lisle and spun rayon meshes is most heartening. You will be wanting a pair of the new tweed rayons to wear with your spring suit. Lisles and cottons come in ribbed effects and in small checks. We will probably be wearing dainty white cotton hose this summer, too. The thinnest of thin navy sheers are smart with navy suits. And nylons in a lace weave are also scheduled for summer.

Bolero

Here's good news for bolero lovers. It looks as though the bolero is going to win out as a special favorite this spring. One of its newer uses is with all 'round pleated skirts. When it is worn with long-torso and slim princess dresses the bolero is very, very short.

Spring Tid-Bits

Pottery, shells and wooden blocks decorate the jewelry counters already laden with accessories for spring. There are pale beige shell necklaces and bracelets, shell brooches, wooden beads the color of sunlit sand, and some giddy wooden cylinders wrapped with cellophane.

Sequins

Colorful sequins add glamour to evening prints. A few dressy afternoon prints also reflect the sparkle of sequins. You'll love the new prints with huge realistic roses on black or navy grounds.

SKI-JORING ARMY STYLE

Passed by Censor

FROM men who used to spend their weekends skiing for fun, the Canadian Army has selected and trained one of the best ski-troops in the world. Utilizing the ski-joring method, in which a skier was pulled swiftly by a horse, these Canadian ski troops have learned to hitch themselves in long lines to a fast moving universal carrier which can travel at 60 miles an hour over very rough ground. Using such tactics it has been found that large bodies of ski troops can be moved swiftly across miles of snow-covered ground in a short space of time.

THE DISTINGUISHED FLYING CROSS

The Distinguished Flying Cross is awarded to any person, who, while serving in any capacity with the Army Air Corps of the United States, including the National Guard and the Organized Reserves, subsequent to April 6, 1917, has distinguished himself or shall distinguish himself by heroism or extraordinary achievement, while participating in an aerial flight.

On a bronze patee a four-bladed propeller; in the re-entrant angles, rays forming a 1-inch square. On the reverse are engraved the grade, name, and organization of the recipient. The cross is suspended by a plain straight link from a silk moire ribbon composed of alternate red, white, and blue stripes, blue predominating.

DISTINGUISHED-SERVICE CROSS

The Distinguished-Service Cross is awarded to persons who, while serving in any capacity with the Army of the United States, distinguished themselves by extraordinary heroism in connection with military operations against an armed enemy. This decoration was instituted by executive order in January, 1918, and confirmed by Congress July 9, 1918.

It is a cross of bronze with an eagle in the center and a scroll below the eagle bearing the inscription "For Valor." On the reverse is space for the recipient's name. The cross is suspended by a ring from a watered-silk ribbon, composed of a band of red, white, blue, white, and red. (Blue, an inch in width, predominates.)

SOLDIER'S MEDAL

The Act of Congress approved July 2, 1926, authorized a medal to be known as the Soldier's Medal, and provided that the medal may be presented to persons who, while serving in any capacity with the Army of the United States shall hereafter distinguish themselves by heroism not involving actual conflict with an enemy.

On a bronze octagon an eagle is displayed standing on a fasces, between two groups of stars of six and seven above the group of six a spray of leaves. On the reverse a shield paly of 13 pieces, on the chief, the letters "U. S." supported by sprays of laurel and oak, around the upper edge the inscription "Soldier's Medal" and across the face the words "For Valor." In the base a panel for the name of the recipient. The medal is suspended by a rectangular-shaped metal loop with corners rounded from a silk moire ribbon.

SILVER STAR

The Silver Star is awarded to each person who, while an officer or enlisted man in the Army of the United States is cited for gallantry in action and the citation was published in orders issued from the headquarters of a force commanded by, or which is the appropriate command of a general officer or issued by the War Department, which citation does not warrant the award of the Medal of Honor or Distinguished Service Cross. A bronze star in the center thereof a raised silver star, the center lines of all rays of both stars coinciding. The reverse to have the inscription "For gallantry in action" and a space for the name of the recipient. It is suspended by a silk moire ribbon in stripes of blue, white and red.

CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL OF HONOR

This, the highest decoration awarded by the U. S. Government, can be given to any officer or enlisted man of the United States Army who shall "in action involving actual conflict with an enemy distinguish himself conspicuously by his gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life, above and beyond the call to duty." It was first authorized by act of Congress in 1862, and presented "in the name of Congress"; hence the frequent allusion to it as the "Congressional Medal."

The present design was adopted in 1904. A bronze five-pointed star, surrounded by a laurel wreath in green enamel, suspended by two links from a bronze bar bearing the inscription "Valor," and surmounted by an eagle. In the center of the star is the head of Minerva surrounded by the inscription "United States of America." Each ray of the star bears an oak leaf in green enamel. On the reverse of the medal is engraved the name of the recipient. It may be worn with a neck band. The ribbon is of light blue watered silk. Midway between the neckband and on the ribbon supporting the medal are 13 white stars arranged in the form of a triple chevron.

Stradivarius Violin

Antonio Stradivari was born in 1644 and died in 1737. He made violins as early as 1680 but his finest instruments date between 1700 and 1725. His label reads "Antonius Stradivarius Cremonensis Fecit Anno . . ." followed by his initials, the A and S being separated by a Maltese cross. If word is "faciebat" instead of "fecit" it is a copy and not an original.

All for Art

By DORA WILLIAMS
(McClure Syndicate—WNU Service.)

GORDON KEENE possessed two complexes curiously mingled—one inferiority, the other superiority. The inferiority complex, engendered when he was still in the tender years when supposedly most complexes are bred, was due to the fact that older sisters and brothers had persistently assured him that he was as handsome as dirt, as graceful as a cow and about as likely to be a successful ladies' man as a one-legged, toothless pirate. And the superiority complex had been engendered at about the same period, by the repeated assurances on the part of the same older sisters and brothers that as a successful novelist he would probably make a fairly good ditch digger. He came out of the formative period firmly convinced that no girl would ever give him a second look, and just as firmly convinced that he was going to be one of the successful writers of the age.

And so far he had done much to prove the rightness of this second conviction. His short stories were appearing with surprising regularity in leading magazines. Occasionally letters reached him from readers of these same stories saying that only a man who had never been in love would write such slush.

He decided finally that he had sufficient background to start his first book—a modern novel.

Gordon led a wandering sort of tramp's existence gathering material for his stories. For a week or two you might have found him working with unskilled hands around some iron foundry—later you might see him passing out programs at a country circus. A little later he would be spending days of apparent idleness in the rooms of his club.

When the time came for the actual writing of his first novel, Gordon went out to live by himself in the rundown old farm house he had inherited from his grandfather. He ate meals when he thought of them at the Lakeville inn. The rest of the time he wrote and occasionally slept without much thought of the time of day.

He had progressed with gratifying results on his novel. But when three-quarters through he was unpleasantly aware of the fact that there were still many gaps throughout the earlier chapters. Three-quarters through the book it was time for his hero to propose—but since there were gaps where there should have been preliminary love scenes and descriptions of the heroine, this proposal business offered almost unsurmountable difficulties. Besides, Gordon realized that he hadn't any idea of how a man proposed. He didn't even know how it felt to want to propose.

Gordon believed in getting all his material at first hand. The only way then to find out how a man proposes was to propose.

So Gordon decided to propose to Caroline Dorsey because all along in thinking of his heroine he had had Caroline Dorsey in mind. Besides he could really put his heart and soul into this business of proposing to Caroline Dorsey. He could suffer with his hero in being turned down by Caroline. It would be a terrific ordeal that Gordon felt a man ought to suffer for the sake of great achievement. Of course, Caroline would despise him for imagining for a moment that she would think of marrying him. She would think him a fool.

So one early fall afternoon Gordon walked up to the estate where Caroline spent a month or so every year. Gordon had met Caroline a few times in town the winter before—at dinner parties he had attended with certain chapters of his book in mind. And Caroline had asked him perfunctorily of course, thought Gordon—to come and see her. That at least provided an excuse. And as Gordon walked up the driveway to the old mansion he willfully put himself in the mood of his hero—desperately, hopelessly in love with his heroine, Caroline Dorsey. Incidentally, Gordon had figured that if Caroline were home he could go through with the preliminaries in half an hour, get down to the proposal and get back in time to write four or five hours more that night. Rejections didn't take long.

"I can't keep it to myself any longer," Gordon's hero was saying through Gordon's lips. "I'm mad about you—Caroline. Caroline, dear—Caroline can't you see—"

Suddenly Gordon felt his hands go cold—felt them tremble as he took Caroline's hand in his. Then some strange power swept over him. He held Caroline in his arms, held her close and kissed her and would not let her go. More of cruel torture than of rapture in this love business, thought Gordon. He kissed her eyes—and held her still to him in one long last embrace. But Caroline did not stir.

"Gordon, Gordon," was all she said. "Gordon, why have you made me wait so long?"

Then Gordon forgot his hero and his heroine and his great work—forgot that he was an awkward fellow whom no woman could ever love, forgot, too, that he was a great writer.

And it was not until he had actually reached his lonely farmhouse when the moon was high that night that he remembered the chapters he had to write.

Spiral, Croquinole

In a spiral wave (the original method) the hair is wound on long rods from the scalp to the ends. In a croquinole, it is wound on shorter rods from the ends to the scalp and is used for probably 90 per cent of the waves given today. A spiral requires 35 to 50 curls, steamed 10 to 15 minutes. A croquinole from 25 to 35 curls, steamed 1 to 10 minutes. The spiral is naturally better adapted than the croquinole to very long hair, and its chief use today is for this purpose, and for those who want the wave started closer to the scalp, which is possible with the spiral wave. It is also preferred for very fine hair by some operators.
